INSPECTOR GENERAL

Complaints and Resolution

The Air Force has a well-established IG Complaints Program that allows you to obtain assistance quickly and fairly when you have a problem. The details of the program are found in AFI 90-301, Inspector General Complaints Resolution. No one can prohibit your access to the IG. However, experience has demonstrated that commanders and supervisors are in the best position to resolve complaints. For this reason, you are encouraged to discuss your issue with your supervisor or your commander before seeking assistance from the IG.

Col James "JB" Burgess

Your IG is available when you have a complaint or a problem that you and your chain of command can't solve.
