Attachment 1— GLOSSARY OF REFERENCES AND SUPPORTING INFORMATION 13

1. Overview. The AFMC Corporate Structure outlines and facilitates the AFMC corporate review process. The AFMC Corporate Structure provides the framework within which to review command-wide issues from a corporate viewpoint and maximizes decision-making effectiveness. The AFMC Corporate Structure provides a transparent forum where AFMC leaders can apply their collective judgment and experience to affect major programs, processes, policies, objectives, and resource allocations.

1.1. The ultimate goal of the AFMC Corporate Structure is to use a defendable, repeatable, and transparent method to arrive at a single command perspective on a myriad of issues. The process uses a multifunctional, cross-staff perspective on key issues; enhances responsiveness to program issues; supports corporate decision making; and removes organizational barriers.

1.2. The AFMC Corporate Structure provides a transparent methodology that enables:

1.2.1. Enterprise solutions which align to the AFMC Strategic Plan.

1.2.2. Command perspective for topics requiring AFMC/CC's review, vector, and/or approval.

1.2.3. Requirements and resource positions aligned to AF and AFMC strategic guidance and priorities.

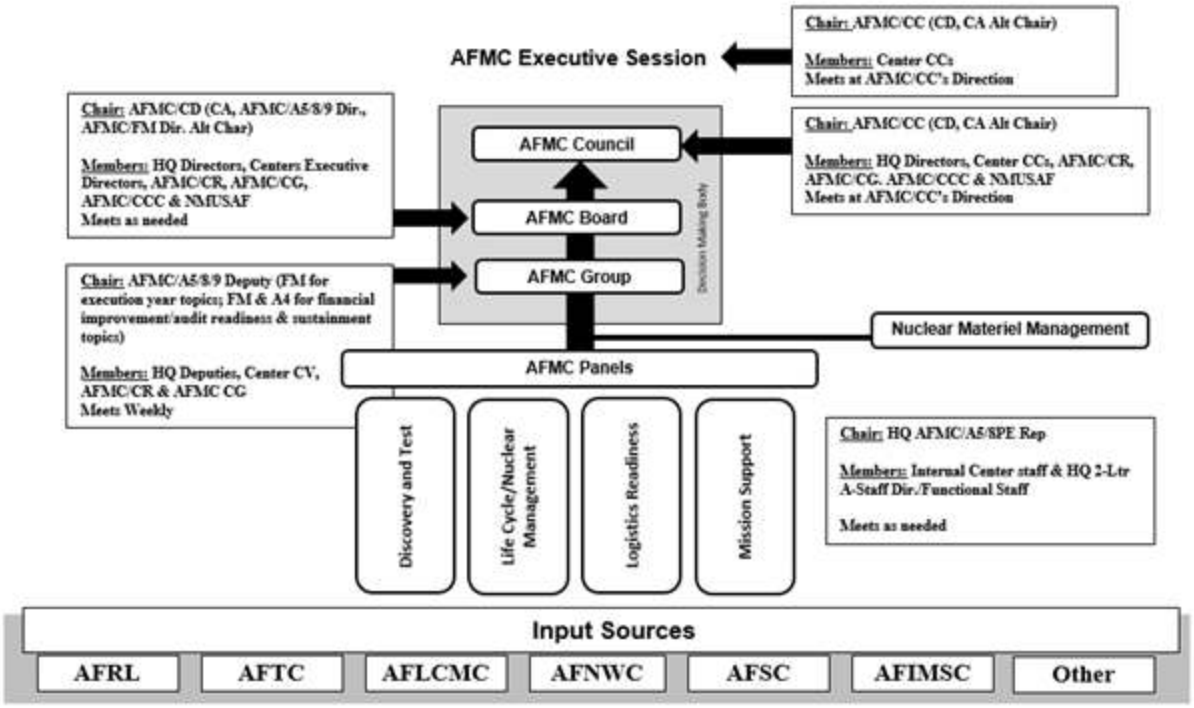

1.2.4. Evaluation of AFMC Performance through strategic metrics.

1.3. The AFMC Corporate Structure does not replace AFMC crisis management processes and procedures governed by AFMCI 10-105, Crisis Command and Control, and AFMC HOI 10-1, Crisis Response –AFMC Crisis Action Team (CAT) and Battle Staff.

2. Organization.

2.1. The AFMC Corporate Structure is comprised of four AFMC Panels, AFMC Group, AFMC Board, AFMC Council, and AFMC Executive Session. The basic structure is illustrated in Figure 1.

2.2. Topics are sequentially elevated through the AFMC Corporate Structure, including unresolved concerns not achieving consensus, which will be encapsulated in meeting minutes. Each level of the AFMC Corporate Structure will generate recommendations to be resolved by the AFMC Council Chair. Unless delegated to a lower level, all decisions will be made at the AFMC Council by the AFMC Commander. A Chair may determine that efficiency or timeline warrants a level be bypassed or finalized via electronic or other means.

3. Roles and Responsibilities.

3.1. Input Sources.

3.1.1. Air Force Research Laboratory (AFRL). Advocate for resources associated with their mission to lead the discovery, development, and integration of affordable warfighting technologies for our aerospace forces.

3.1.2. Air Force Test Center (AFTC). Advocate for resources associated with their mission to develop, test, and evaluate air, space, and cyberspace systems to deliver war-winning capabilities.

3.1.3. Air Force Life Cycle Management Center (AFLCMC). Advocate for resources associated with their mission to develop, acquire, modernize, integrate, and support affordable and sustainable advanced aerospace, cyberspace, command, control, communications, and weapons capabilities to our warfighters.

3.1.4. Air Force Nuclear Weapons Center (AFNWC). Advocate for resources associated with their mission to deliver nuclear capabilities warfighters use every day to deter our adversaries and assure our allies. In addition, AFNWC serves as lead for Nuclear Materiel Management per AFI 13-500.

3.1.5. Air Force Sustainment Center (AFSC). Advocate for resources associated with their mission to deliver combat capability through around-the-clock, worldwide sustainment support for AF weapon systems. AFSC manages the operational planning and execution of the AF supply chain management and depot maintenance missions across the command.

3.1.6. Air Force Installation and Mission Support Center (AFIMSC). Advocate for resources associated with their mission to deliver globally integrated combat support and shape the foundation of America's Air, Space, and Cyberspace power.

3.1.7. Other. HQ AFMC A-Staff Directorates/Functional Staffs, National Museum of the United States Air Force (NMUSAF), etc.

3.2. AFMC Panels.

3.2.1. The AFMC Panels advocate for topics within their respective areas, make transparent management and resource recommendations within their authority, and present corporate positions to the AFMC Group/Board/Council Chair for decisions, as necessary.

3.2.2. The AFMC Panels are chaired by HQ AFMC/A5/8PE personnel.

3.2.3. The AFMC Panel membership is comprised of the Chairs and designated representatives from the Centers and HQ 2-Letter A-Staff Directorates/Functional Staff, as applicable. Membership must include A1 (Manpower), FM, and A5/8/9.

3.2.4. The AFMC Panel Chairs will:

3.2.4.1. Serve as focal point for their respective portfolios; maintain a command-wide, corporate perspective; mitigate stovepipe thinking; and facilitate effective communication and collaboration (T-2).

3.2.4.2. Establish panel's structure, maintain and post a current membership list online (Note: See Attachment 1, URLs), govern decision authority within panel, and support AFMC Corporate Structure related meetings (T-2).

3.2.4.3. Advocate and make recommendations with an enterprise perspective, while remaining consistent with AF and AFMC priorities (T-2).

3.2.4.4. Ensure proper coordination is accomplished prior to advocating panel's topics to the AFMC Group, and keep members and leaders apprised of topics being presented to the AFMC Corporate Structure (T-2).

3.2.4.5. Hold meetings on specific topics requiring stakeholder participation for those with vested interest. During the Panel phase of the Execution Plan process, hold meetings with stakeholders to ensure knowledge of updated needs and sharing of funding strategies. Ensure all AFMC Panel Members and advisors are invited to meetings on Planning, Programming, Budgeting, and Execution (PPBE) activities. The Panel phase is critical to the Execution Plan process because it establishes the way forward for all requirements and associated funding within a panel for the upcoming year of execution. Bypassing important panel meetings (even electronic ones) automatically drives risk into the panel position provided to HQ AFMC/FMA and/or HQ AFMC/A5/8/9 (T-2).

3.2.4.6. Support all PPBE activities, to include, but not limited to:

3.2.4.6.1. Air Staff Program Element Monitor (PEM) Parades, advocating for resources, providing requirements expertise, AFMC/CC preparation meetings, and pay and non-pay funding resource decisions (T-2).

3.3.2. AFNWC is responsible for synchronizing NMM activities across AFMC and the AF. AFNWC serves as the primary advocate and principal representative of AFMC's NMM resource requirements to Air Force Global Strike Command (AFGSC). In coordination with HQ AFMC/A5/8/9, AFNWC will:

3.3.2.1. Communicate and collaborate with AFMC Centers to identify strategy, planning, and programming requirements relevant to NMM missions (T-2).
