Procedures for Processing Complaints in the Federal Government

Filing an Informal Complaint:
CIVILIAN: To file a complaint, an employee, former employee or applicant for employment must contact an EO Counselor within 45 calendar days of the date of the matter alleged to be discriminatory to begin the complaint process.

MILITARY: Military members may contact the EO Office at any time to file an informal complaint. The informal resolution process is available as an alternative to filing a formal military complaint. The informal process allows individuals to handle their grievance through their chain of command. Electing to use the informal process does not prevent filing a formal complaint if resolution was not possible at the informal process.

Filing a Formal Complaint:
CIVILIAN: If a complaint has not been resolved through EO Counseling or Negotiation Dispute Resolution (NDR), a complainant may file a formal complaint of discrimination. The EO Counselor assigned to the complaint provides the complainant a Notice of Right to File a Formal Complaint during the final interview. This notice establishes the requirement that formal complaints must be filed within 15 calendar days of the receipt of the Notice of the Right to File a Formal Complaint. The EO Counselor may assist complainants in filling out the DD Form 2265, Complaint of Discrimination in the Federal Government. Formal complaints are handled by the 42 ABW/EO Office, including interface with the Department of War, Investigation and Resolution Division (IRD) and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

MILITARY: A member may elect to file a complaint of discrimination without using the informal process. To be accepted as a formal complaint, allegations of discrimination must have occurred within 60 calendar days (excluding sexual harassment) of contacting the EO office. The role of the EO staff in military formal complaints is to assist the complainant with summarizing, documenting and clarifying allegations.

Negotiation Dispute Resolution through facilitation/mediation is available and encouraged anytime throughout the process.
