This instruction implements Title 10 United States Code (USC), Sections (§) 2005, Advanced Education Assistance: Active Duty Agreement; Reimbursement Requirements; 10 USC § 2007, Payment of Tuition for Off-Duty Training or Education; Department of Defense Instruction (DoDI) 1322.29, Job Training, Employment, Employment Skills Training, Apprenticeships and Internships (JTEST-AI) for Eligible Service Members; and Presidential Executive Order 13607, Establishing Principles of Excellence for Educational Institutions Serving Service Members, Veterans, Spouses, and Other Family Members. It also implements 10 USC § 9415, Community College of the Air Force: associate degrees; and 10 USC § 9417, Degree Granting Authority for Air University. Finally, this instruction implements Air Force Policy Directive (AFPD) 36-26, Total Force Development. It has been developed in collaboration between the Deputy Chief of Staff for Manpower, Personnel and Services (AF/A1), the Deputy Chief of Space Operations for Human Capital (SF/S1), the Chief of the Air Force Reserve (AF/RE) and the Director of the Air National Guard (NGB/CF), and applies to uniformed members of the Regular Air Force (RegAF), United States Space Force, Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, and Department of the Air Force civilians. This publication provides directive guidance on personnel policy for executing total force development. It includes personnel policy on career enhancement programs, developmental education, and training programs; directive guidance on voluntary education programs and develops policy for the Community College of the Air Force (CCAF); the objectives, requirements, and assigned responsibilities for the conduct and administration of training, education, and professional development for appropriated fund and non-appropriated fund civilians; and directive guidance on how to classify and code educational levels, education specialties, education subspecialties, and the method used to obtain education levels for the Military Personnel Data System. It is used according to 5 USC § 4118, Regulations by management of civilian training functions for appropriated fund and non-appropriated fund civilians. Finally, it establishes Department of the Air Force (AF) guidance for determining needs; validating requirements; financial planning; obtaining resources; and evaluating, documenting, and reporting training. This instruction requires the collection and or maintenance of information protected by the Privacy Act of 1974 authorized by 5 USC § 552a; 10 USC Section 9013; and Executive Order 13478, Amendments to Executive Order 9397 Relating to Federal Agency Use of Social Security Numbers. The applicable system of records notices (SORNs) F036 AF PC C, Military Personnel Records System; F033 AF B, Privacy Act Request File; F036 AF PC Q, Personnel Data System; F036 AFMC D, Education and Training Management System; F036 AF A1 A, Air Force Automated Education Management System, and F036 AETC L, Community College of the Air Force Student Transcript, Administration, and Records System are available at: http://dpclo.defense.gov/Privacy/SORNs.aspx. Refer recommended changes and questions about this publication to the Office of Primary Responsibility listed above using the DAF Form 847, Recommendation for Change of Publication; route DAF Forms 847 from the field through the appropriate functional chain of command. The authorities to waive wing/unit level requirements in this publication are identified with a Tier ("T-0, T-1, T-2, T-3") number following the compliance statement. See DAFI 90- 161, Publishing Processes and Procedures, Table A10.1 for a description of the authorities associated with the Tier numbers. Submit requests for waivers through the chain of command to the appropriate Tier waiver approval authority, or alternately, to the requestor's commander for nontiered compliance items. Ensure that all records created as a result of processes prescribed in this publication are maintained in accordance AFI 33-322, Records Management and Information Governance Program, and disposed of in accordance with Air Force Records Disposition Schedule, which is located in the Air Force Records Information Management System. The use of the name or mark of any specific manufacturer, commercial product, commodity, or service in this publication does not imply endorsement by the Air Force. Compliance with the attachments in this publication is mandatory.

SUMMARY OF CHANGES

Interim Change 1 deleted paragraph 6.9, "Air Force Credentialing Program," which is now published in DoDI1322.33_DAFI36-2683, Department of the Air Force Voluntary Credentialing Programs. Interim Change 2 deleted Chapter 7, "Community College of the Air Force," which is now published in DAFI 36-2688, Community College of the Air Force. Interim Change 3 removed Chapter 8, "Education Classification and Coding Procedures," which is now published in DAFI 36-2678, Education Classification and Coding. Interim Change 4 removed Chapter 4, "Air Force Training Program," attachments 22 – 29, and DAF Forms 623, 623a, 523b, 797, 803, 898, 1098, 1256, 1320A, and 2096, and the new guidance is published in DAFMAN 36-2689, Training Program. Interim Change 5 removed Chapter 5 "Civilian Training, Education and Professional Development, which is now published in DAFMAN 36-2687, Civilian Development. Interim

Change 6 removed elements of officer development contained within Chapter 3, "Developmental Education" and attachments 19 and 20. The new guidance can be found in DAFMAN 36-2686, Officer Development. Interim Change 7 removed paragraph 11. of Chapter 6 and is now published in DoDI 1341.13_DAFI 36-3038, Post-9/11 GI Bill. Interim Change 8 removed Chapter 2, "The Career Assistance Advisor, First Term Airmen Center and Enlisted Professional Enhancement Programs" and Total Force Enlisted Professional Military Education contained within Chapter 3, "Developmental Education". The new guidance for both chapters can be found in DAFI 36-2685, Total Force Enlisted Developmental Education. Interim Change 9 removed language regarding Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, in compliance with Executive Order "Ending Radical and Wasteful Government DEI Programs and Preferencing," 20 January 2025. Interim Change 10 removed paragraphs 6.1 through 6.8. of Chapter 6, Voluntary Education Program, and the new guidance is published in DAFI 36-2681, Voluntary Education Programs. This Interim Change 11 removes paragraphs 6.10 through 6.10.9.6 entitled SkillBridge Program, and the new guidance is published in AFI 36-2671, SkillBridge Program. A margin bar (|) indicates newly revised material.

EXECUTING TOTAL FORCE DEVELOPMENT

The provisions in Chapter 1 of this instruction are intended for application to officers O-5 and below, enlisted, and civilians General Schedule (GS)-15 (or equivalent) and below.

1.1. Overview. This publication establishes guidance and procedures for the administration and management of force development initiatives and applies to the Total Force. Force development develops foundational and occupational competencies in all Airmen through education, training, and experience opportunities to satisfy current and future Air Force mission requirements. Force development is dynamic and deliberate by design. It depends on underlying processes which integrate and synchronize senior leader perspectives, institutional requirements, and modeling tools used to forecast qualitative and quantitative requirements with precision and rigor.

1.1.1. Force development leverages the Continuum of Learning, a career-long process of individual development. The Continuum of Learning is designed to deliberately integrate developmental opportunities using the Foundational Competencies. The Continuum of Learning is a common taxonomy used to produce adaptable and knowledgeable Airmen and is generally obtained through a combination of education programs, training programs, and experience. Education programs include: developmental education, undergraduate, advanced academic degrees, and professional continuing education. Training programs include: technical, on-the-job, flying, ancillary, expeditionary Airman training, Civilian Acculturation and Leadership Training, and advanced training such as the Air Force Weapons School and other advanced courses. Experience is gained through an appropriate series of assignments or special programs, such as intern programs, education with industry, Developmental Special Duties or fellowships with research organizations, and leveraged through appropriate mentoring.

1.1.2. Force development is executed by the Force Development Command (AETC); the Air Force Personnel Center (AFPC), Directorate of Assignments (AFPC/DP2) for Regular Air Force officers and enlisted; and the Directorate of Civilian Force Integration (AFPC/DP3DA) for civilians. Functional Authorities have overarching responsibility for force development for their functional communities. Career field managers communicate the education, training, and experience requirements for their functional communities. Air Force Reserve force development is executed by Air Reserve Personnel Center (ARPC). Each state, territory, or district is responsible for the execution of Air National Guard force development.

1.2. Overarching Roles and Responsibilities. Additional or expanded roles and responsibilities for the Air Force Reserve and the Air National Guard are addressed in paragraphs 1.6, 1.7 and 1.8 respectively.

1.2.1. Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Manpower and Reserve Affairs (SAF/MR). SAF/MR serves as an agent of the Secretary of the Air Force and provides guidance, direction, and oversight for all matters pertaining to the formulation, review, and execution of plans, policies, programs, and budgets addressing force development.

1.2.2. Deputy Chief of Staff, Manpower, Personnel and Services (AF/A1). Develops and ensures implementation of force development policy. Specifically, AF/A1 develops and ensures implementation of force development policy to:

1.2.2.1. Lead career field sustainability, design, task definition, and functionality efforts for all Airmen.

1.2.2.2. Define force development requirements and competency development, regardless of funding source.

1.2.2.3. Provide annual force development guidance to the functional authorities, functional managers, and development team chairs.

1.2.2.4. Provide oversight of development teams.

1.2.2.5. Provide oversight, guidance, and develop standards for functional area managers and career field managers.

1.2.2.6. Chair the annual Developmental Education Designation Board and establish developmental education requirements.

1.2.2.7. Maintain oversight and control of Air Force-approved organizational structures, manpower requirements, and programmed and budgeted manpower levels, to include joint bases.

1.2.2.8. Maintain control, develop policy, and oversee determination and validation of manpower requirements as depicted on Unit Manpower Documents.

1.2.2.9. Establish Developmental Special Experiences (DSE) governing policy.

1.2.2.10. Partner with the Force Development Command (AETC) in determining applicability and categorization of special experience identifiers (SEI), special duty identifiers (SDI), career broadening opportunities, fellowships, and other prospects as DSE opportunities.

1.2.3. Force Development Command (AETC). Develops and implements force development processes and procedures to execute force development policy.

1.2.4. Functional Authorities. Functional authorities are designated General Officers and members of the Senior Executive Service serving as Deputy Chiefs of Staff or Assistant Secretaries appointed by the Secretary of the Air Force to provide oversight and functional advisory services related to functional communities. Exception: Changes to functional authority rank/grade/position must be requested in writing to AF/A1, with a copy provided to AF/A1D, AF/A1C and AF/A1P. (T-1). (see Attachment 3). Multiple Air Force specialties may fall under a functional authority's purview. Functional Authority Alignment Tables (see Attachment 4) provide detailed identification of the functional authority responsibilities for specific specialties and career fields. Specifically, the functional authorities will:

1.2.4.1. Direct and approve functional assignment prioritization plans. (T-1).

1.2.4.2. Ensure Secretary of the Air Force-approved force development policies are implemented within their assigned functional communities. (T-1).

1.2.4.3. Provide strategic oversight of force development to include determination and prioritization of functional community requirements to meet mission needs. (T-1).

1.2.4.4. Ensure Airmen are both encouraged and provided the opportunity, when appropriate, to perform instructor and special duties to meet institutional requirements. (T-1).

1.2.4.5. Review career field health on specialties under their management and report results to the Air Force Council when appropriate. (T-1).

1.2.4.6. Inform AF/A1 of anticipated reorganizations, realignments, and mission changes that may affect force development programs. (T-1).

1.2.4.7. Provide functional representation to the annual Air Force Education Requirements Board. (T-1).

1.2.4.8. Establish a Functional Advisory Council and appoint the Functional Advisory Council chair(s). (T-1).

1.2.4.9. Develop Functional Advisory Council charter (see Attachment 5). (T-1).

1.2.4.10. Appoint a functional manager. (T-1).

1.2.4.11. Notify AF/A1DI in writing (with a copy to Human Resources Data, Analytics, and Decision Support Division (A1XD) or Headquarters Air Force, Compensation and Workforce Management (AF/A1CM) for civilians) within 10 business days of any new appointments to the career field functional authorities, functional managers, and development team chair positions (see Attachment 6). (T-1).

1.2.4.12. Designate assignment team and career field team personnel to serve as representatives to Functional Advisory Councils and developmental teams. (T-1). Can be delegated to the functional authority's representatives.

1.2.5. Functional Advisory Councils. Functional Advisory Councils prepare senior leaders with a comprehensive understanding of functional, cross-functional, and institutional personnel requirements as they pertain to particular career fields. Functional Advisory Councils provide the development team panels with developmental requirements for their career field population in the areas of education, training, and experience. Functional Advisory Councils may be convened by each functional area to provide strategic-level oversight to functional communities under their guidance and support the force development and force structure management processes within defined Air Force functional communities.

1.2.5.1. Functional Advisory Council Establishment. Functional Advisory Councils should convene at least annually. Every effort should be made to convene in conjunction with other career field meetings where a majority of the Functional Advisory Council members are already in attendance, or they may be held virtually.

1.2.5.2. Functional Advisory Council Chair. Ideally, the functional authority will appoint the functional manager as the Functional Advisory Council chair. When the functional manager is unavailable to fulfill this role, the functional authority will appoint a general officer or member of the senior executive service as the representative.

1.2.5.3. Functional Advisory Council Membership. The Functional Advisory Council chair determines the Functional Advisory Council membership. Ideally, the Functional Advisory Council will include the career field manager, Major Command-level functional leadership and other key force development stakeholders (i.e., Assignment Team/Career Field Team representatives). Cross-functional authorities may have valid force development requirements involving Airmen assigned to functional Air Force specialty codes or approved civilian billets in shared occupational series, such as those in the Nuclear Enterprise. Representatives from these communities may attend applicable Functional Advisory Councils with prior approval from the functional manager.

1.2.5.4. Identify functional, cross-functional, and institutional requirements for the career field and validate career field mission needs.

1.2.5.5. Identify developmental goals of the career field. Discussions should include topics such as cross-functional requirements review, releasing Airmen for opportunities out of their core Air Force specialty code, preparing Airmen for institutional Air Force leadership positions, and sustaining perishable skill sets.

1.2.5.6. Determine career field capability to satisfy identified requirements, meet developmental goals, and perform the mission. Any capability gaps are resolved through changes in the progression plan and force management initiatives.

1.2.5.7. If a development team is executed, the Functional Advisory Council should utilize development team feedback to identify existing and potential career field capability gaps.

1.2.5.8. Communicate developmental goals to the career field through updated career progression guidance and direction to career field leadership.

1.2.6. Cross-Functional Authority. Cross-functional authorities are responsible for strategic oversight and force development advocacy related to the requirements of their occupational capability. They identify cross-functional billets, associate proficiency levels, and identify development (developmental education, training and/or experience) required to successfully conduct their mission Currently, six cross-functional authorities have been identified: cyberspace, nuclear, space, test and evaluation, combat air advisors, and acquisitions Future cross-functional authorities will be designated by a memorandum signed by the Air Force Chief of Staff or designated representative. While not authorized to establish development teams, cross-functional authorities have valid force development requirements involving Airmen assigned to various Air Force specialties, which can include Air Force Specialty Codes (military)/occupational series (civilian) outside their core functional area. These communities generate and implement force development and management strategies to sustain and improve such capabilities. Cross-functional authorities will:

1.2.6.1. Provide strategic-level guidance to the functional communities that contribute to cross-functional capabilities. (T-1).

1.2.6.2. Provide career field managers with requirement validation guidance and procedures, including utilization and prioritization guidance. (T-1).

1.2.6.3. Forecast force development requirements (both qualitative and quantitative) using Air Force strategic planning processes. (T-1). Articulate requirements to functional authorities in the form of long- and short-term manpower forecasts; personnel requirements; and education, training, and experience criteria necessary to develop a sufficient cross-functional community. (T-1).

1.2.6.4. Ensure career field managers and Development Teams are provided education, training, and experience criteria necessary to develop their cross-functional professional inventories. (T-1).

1.2.6.5. Advocate cross-functional issues to functional communities. (T-1).

1.2.6.6. As appropriate, attend functional authority, functional manager, development team, Functional Advisory Council, and career field manager meetings. (T-1).

1.2.6.7. Articulate cross-functional programs to functional authorities, development teams, and assignment teams in the form of Air Force specialty code or occupational series-specific capability requirements on an annual basis. (T-1).

1.2.6.8. Identify cross-functional requirements to individual career field managers from supporting career fields no later than 90 days prior to each development team session. (T-1). Development team chairs, career field managers, and assignment teams ensure these cross-functional requirements are appropriately addressed during development team sessions. (T-1).

1.2.6.9. Provide annual cross-functional area health updates to senior leadership as necessary. (T-1).

1.2.6.10. Provide support to accessions and training processes as outlined in AFI 36-2616, Technical Training Requirements Programs. (T-1).

1.2.6.11. In coordination with Career Field Managers, define and develop cross-functional capabilities education and training requirements to produce appropriate skills and capability inventory. (T-1).

1.2.6.12. Coordinate and integrate training requirements through Utilization & Training Workshop process as defined in Chapter 4. (T-1).

1.2.6.13. Review and validate advanced academic degree requirements, as well as other professional continuing education needed to meet Air Force requirements. (T-1).

1.2.6.14. Directly engage and advocate with Headquarters Air Force agencies, functional authorities, and career field managers to synchronize and integrate planning, programming, budgeting, legislative, and policy development activities within the corporate structure through use of force development plans. (T-1).

1.2.6.15. When necessary, establish, chair and convene Cross-Functional Advisory Panels or other governance forums to develop and coordinate strategic-level oversight to key stakeholders and functional communities. (T-1).

1.2.6.16. Monitor development of Total Force Assessment, career field pyramids (see Attachment 7), and manning products as appropriate. (T-1).

1.2.7. Nuclear Enterprise Functional Authority. The Secretary of the Air Force appointed the Assistant Chief of Staff, Strategic Deterrence and Nuclear Integration (AF/A10) as the Nuclear Enterprise Functional Authority to advocate and integrate cross-functional nuclear capabilities through human capital strategies that meet the needs of nuclear Airmen. Specifically, the Nuclear Enterprise Functional Authority will:

1.2.7.1. In partnership with career field managers, articulate the human capital nuclear requirements of dual-capable Airmen to ensure the expertise and numbers necessary for nuclear deterrence operations.

1.2.7.2. Develop nuclear competencies required for nuclear deterrence operations.

1.2.7.3. Articulate nuclear deterrence operations competencies to functional authorities in the construct of the Continuum of Learning.

1.2.7.4. Identify billets, units, and career fields that contribute to nuclear deterrence operations for gap analysis and added deliberate, force development.

1.2.7.5. Review Nuclear Education (e.g., Nuclear Courses 200/300/400) and training learning objectives in partnership with Air Education and Training Command.

1.2.7.6. Validate nuclear developmental education requirements, eligibility, and selection; recommend developmental education outplacement to the functional community.

1.2.7.7. Provide guidance and establish requirements for nuclear competencies and any nuclear certification program and coding.

1.2.7.8. Provide guidance and nuclear perspective to development teams.

1.2.7.9. Provide strategic guidance to prioritization plans.

1.2.7.10. Review and assess career health/status of nuclear enterprise career fields.

1.2.7.11. Assist in the development of cross-functional career pyramids to be used in conjunction with supporting career fields' pyramids.

1.2.7.12. Appoint a nuclear enterprise representative to senior Air Force-level councils/boards.

1.2.7.13. Partner with AF/A1 in building and executing human capital strategies in support of nuclear deterrence operations.

1.2.7.14. Develop, review and report quarterly performance measurements to ensure progress in career field health.

1.2.8. Functional Manager. RegAF general officer or senior executive service members, designated by the appropriate functional authorities, who provide day-to-day management over specific functional communities. While functional managers should maintain an institutional focus with regard to resource development and distribution, they are responsible for ensuring their specialties are equipped, developed, and sustained to provide Air Force capabilities. Specifically, functional managers will:

1.2.8.1. Chair the Functional Advisory Council (see paragraph 1.5.2.3). (T-1).

1.2.8.2. Determine Functional Advisory Council membership (see paragraph 1.5.2.3). (T-1).

1.2.8.3. Develop a development team charter, as outlined in Attachment 8 (T-1). The charter is reviewed annually and revised as appropriate, and a copy provided to the owning functional authority and Directorate of Force Development, AF/A1D. (T-1).

1.2.8.4. Chair the development team meeting or identify an alternate development team chair (see paragraph 1.4.2). (T-1).

1.2.8.5. Determine development team membership (see paragraph 1.4.3). (T-1).

1.2.8.6. Convene the development team to meet the milestones outlined in Attachment 9, and hold additional meetings as necessary to meet Air Force and functional needs. (T-1).

1.2.8.7. Appoint career field managers, as needed, to manage the career fields aligned under the functional manager (T-1). Provide appointments in writing to AF/A1P (RegAF), Air Force Reserve Command (AFRC)/A1K or AF/A1CM (civilians) with a copy to AF/A1DI (see Attachment 10). (T-1).

1.2.8.8. Define functional community training requirements through Utilization & Training Workshop process as defined in Chapter 4. (T-1).

1.2.8.9. Define functional community education requirements through the Air Force Education Requirements Board process as defined in Chapter 3 and the Air Force Education Requirements Board concept of operations (Surgeon General Requirements are worked through the Health Professions Education Requirements Board vice the Air Force Education Requirements Board). (T-1).

1.2.8.10. Provide career field health updates to the functional authority on the status of the career field(s). (T-1).

1.2.8.11. Where appropriate, blend the requirements for RegAF officers, enlisted, and civilian members within the functional family in order to achieve force development objectives. (T-1).

1.2.8.12. Coordinate with cross-functional authorities to identify requirements and provide to career field managers from supporting career fields. (T-1).

1.2.9. Development Team. Development teams provide oversight of officer, enlisted, and civilian personnel development to meet both functional and Air Force corporate leadership requirements. Development team guidance is addressed in paragraph 1.4 for RegAF officers and civilians. Development team guidance is addressed in paragraph 1.5 for RegAF enlisted.

1.2.10. Career Field Manager. The career field manager is appointed by the functional manager and represents a functional community. A career field manager may be responsible for more than one specialty or multiple career field managers may be appointed within a single career field. Officer and civilian career field managers are O-6/GS-15 (or equivalent), and enlisted career field managers are E-9s. Exceptions require a waiver approved by AF/A1D (see Attachment 11). Specifically, career field managers will:

1.2.10.1. Serve as a day-to-day advocate for assigned functional community, addressing issues, and coordinating specialty concerns across various staffs. (T-1).

1.2.10.2. Implement career field policies. (T-1).

1.2.10.3. Be a permanent voting member of the development team. (T-1).

1.2.10.4. Provide central oversight for career field education and training in coordination with Air Education and Training Command Training Pipeline Manager, Air University, Air Force Institute of Technology, and the Air Force Personnel Center to manage education and training through processes described in governing directives and applicable AFIs (T-1). Additionally, manages use of available education and development funds in compliance with appropriate AFIs. (T-1).

1.2.10.5. Provide support to accessions and training processes as outlined in AFI 36-2616. (T-1).

1.2.10.6. Coordinate all force structure changes with Air Force Training/Education Requirements Division (AF/A1PT) or the Air Force Military Force Policy Division (AF/A1PP) and participates in accession and training conferences. (T-1).

1.2.10.7. Monitor Total Force assessment, career pyramids, and manning products as appropriate (T-1). Consult Air Force Directorate of Force Management Policy (AF/A1P) and Air Force Directorate of Manpower, Organization and Resources (AF/A1M) on force management and force sustainment data analysis and execution. (T-1).

1.2.10.8. Develop and maintain up-to-date career planning guidance (i.e., career field pyramids and Civilian Leadership Development Continuum, see Attachment 12) (T-1). Career field managers are responsible for reviewing this information on an annual basis, making appropriate updates as needed(T-1). Career field managers will make this information available to their functional community(T-1). AF/A1D will review career planning guidance to ensure it is consistent with Air Force force development objectives prior to release (T-1).

1.2.10.9. Participate in the career field manager forum. (T-1).

1.2.10.10. Review and validate advanced academic degree requirements, as well as other professional continuing education needed to meet Air Force requirements, through the Air Force Education Requirements Board process as defined in Chapter 3 and the Air Force Education Requirements Board concept of operations (T-1). Surgeon General requirements are worked through the Health Professions Education Requirements Board vice the Air Force Education Requirements Board (T-1).

1.2.10.11. Ensure cross-functional requirements are appropriately addressed during development team sessions. (T-1).

1.2.11. Air Force Personnel Center. Accomplishes force development responsibilities for RegAF Airmen and civilians through several offices: assignment teams in Director of Assignments and Air Expeditionary Forces (AEF) Operations (AFPC/DP3) and career field teams (CFTs) in Civilian Force Integration (AFPC/DP2), Officer Force Development (AFPC/DP2ND), and Developmental Education (AFPC/DPAPFE) and Enlisted Functional Assignment Managers (AFPC/DP2). Assignment teams and career field teams serve as the "front line" in experiential development. These teams are responsible for assigning RegAF officers, civilians and enlisted in accordance with development team vectors. In making assignments, assignment teams and career field teams ensure a balance of Air Force mission requirements with individual development of officers, civilians, enlisted, and leverage local utilization where possible in order to preserve permanent change of station funds and assist with family stability. Each office within the Air Force Personnel Center has specific force development responsibilities that include but are not limited to the following:

1.2.11.1. Assignment teams will identify projected/anticipated aggregated requirements by level and position type, to include 365-day deployment requirements, prior to individual development team meetings (T-1). This ensures development team members have information to provide vector recommendations proportionate to the number and type of positions that are likely to be filled in the near future, and the ability to consider permanent-change-of-station cost savings and family stability.

1.2.11.2. Career field teams will provide development teams with a general overview of the Key Career Position process and utilization and/or development opportunities available for civilians at the appropriate levels to allow development teams to provide realistic and actionable vector recommendations. (T-1).

1.2.11.3. Assignment teams and career field teams will identify individuals who are eligible to meet a given development and prepare materials to present to the development team, as needed. (T-1).

1.2.11.4. Assignment teams and career field teams will execute assignments within established guidance and prioritization plans. (T-1). The Air Force Personnel Center retains final assignment authority for all assignments for RegAF officers, enlisted, and civilians covered by this instruction(T-0). Additional RegAF assignment policy may be found in the Air Force Assignment System guide, managed by AFPC/DP3, and AFI 36-2110, Total Force Assignments. Note: In accordance with 10 USC § 806, Judge Advocates and Legal Officers, the assignment of Judge Advocates and legal officers shall be made upon the recommendation of The Judge Advocate General.

1.2.11.5. Assignment teams and career field teams will provide appropriate inventory data and appropriate force management policies (e.g., force shaping, promotion policies), at the start of each development team meeting. (T-1).

1.2.11.6. Assignment teams, career field teams, AFPC Workforce Development Section (AFPD/DP2LWD) and AFPC Officer Force Development (AFPC/DP2ND) will provide input to AFPC/DP3, AFPC/DP2, and AF/A1D regarding automated tools and other resources needed to execute force development. (T-1).

1.2.11.7. Assignment teams and career field teams will work with the career field managers to ensure coverage of career field issues at accession and training conferences, as appropriate. (T-1).

1.2.11.8. Assignment teams and career field teams will develop and maintain metrics to measure the correlation of officer, civilian and enlisted development team vectors with actual assignments, and provide an annual summary to AF/A1, functional authorities, cross-functional authorities and development teams. (T-1).

1.2.11.9. Career field teams will identify an outplacement functional assignment, in coordination with the functional authority, for those individuals currently in a Civilian Strategic Leadership Program assignment. (T-1). To the maximum extent possible, this should be done in coordination with the Civilian Strategic Leadership Program member.

1.2.11.10. AFPC/DP2ND will post development team meeting dates on the respective Officer and Civilian Development Pages on myPers, located on the Air Force Portal. (T-1).

1.2.11.11. AFPC/DP3 will train development team members at the start of each officer and civilian development team on development team processes, information technology tools, and special selection procedures. (T-1).

1.2.12. Senior Rater, Commander/Director, and Supervisor. Senior rater, commander, director, and supervisor involvement is essential to force development. Their input is critical for making deliberate force development decisions about individual members and identifying and maximizing the capabilities of Airmen. These leaders make informed recommendations in accordance with eligibility, selection criteria, and force development requirements. (T-3).

1.2.12.1. Senior Rater. Will provide recommendation on eligible Airmen for developmental opportunities as applicable. (T-3). Provide brief written comments to the development team to enhance and enable selection processes via web-based tools (e.g., developmental education preferences/ Statements of Intent, nomination packages, etc.). (T-3).

1.2.12.2. Squadron Commander or Director. Responsible for reviewing individuals' preferences, assessing each Airman's developmental potential, and providing appropriate recommendations to the senior rater. (T-3). Note: For Air Force organizations above wing level, the division chief or system program office director will normally perform these duties. (T-3). For joint organizations, the Air Force representative on the Personnel and Manpower (J1) staff identifies the responsible officer. (T-3).

1.2.12.3. Supervisor. Plays an integral role in supporting all aspects of force development through mentoring feedback, and Airman Development Plans (officer) or Individual Development Plans (civilian) for all Airmen they supervise, and assist individuals in making informed career decisions. Supervisors review and forward preference information and ensure officers and civilians complete preference information, as needed, to meet development team established timelines. (T-3).

1.2.13. Mentor. Airmen may seek informal, private communication with a mentor either in or out of their rating chain. For additional information on mentoring, refer to AFMAN 36-2643, *Air Force Mentoring Program.

1.2.14. Individual. All Airmen should be familiar with the appropriate career paths for their career field, complete appropriate education and training commensurate with their grade, and develop the proficiency of occupational and Foundational Competencies commensurate with their grade. Airmen are responsible for maintaining awareness of resources for development opportunities and actively participating in their career development and advancement. (T-3).

1.2.15. Officers. Responsible for utilizing resources such as myPers and expressing career preferences, to include squadron command intent, developmental education designation, or normal permanent change of station vulnerability milestones. (T-1).

1.2.16. Civilians. Responsible for using resources such as myPers, initiating and updating an Individual Development Plan via AF Form 4059, Air Force Civilian Competitive Development Nomination, or other appropriate document to express assignment and developmental preferences, to include squadron director intent, developmental education designation, or mobility agreement. (T-1).

1.2.17. Enlisted. Responsible for utilizing resources such as myPers and Enlisted Quarterly Assignment Listing Plus to express career preferences. (T-1). Communicate those preferences with supervisor and chain of command, and ensure worldwide assignment availability to the maximum extent possible.

1.2.18. AF/RE. The Chief, Air Force Reserve is the approval authority for force development policy that impacts Air Force Reservists to include, but not limited to, Air Reserve Technicians, Traditional Reservists, Individual Reservists and Reserve-Component Air Guard Reservists. This AFI includes force development guidance specific to members of the Reserve Component.

1.2.19. AF/JA. The Judge Advocate General is solely responsible for force development of the entire Judge Advocate career field across all components, to include the Air Reserve Component, in accordance with 10 USC § 806; 10 USC § 9037, Judge Advocate General, Deputy Judge Advocate General: appointment; duties; and AFI 51-101, The Air Force Judge Advocate General's Corps (AFJAGC) Operations, Accessions, and Professional Development. This instruction provides general guidance, but judge advocate force development will be conducted at the direction of The Judge Advocate General.

1.2.20. AF/HC. The Air Force Chief of Chaplains is responsible for force development of the entire Chaplain career field across all components, to include the Air Reserve Component, in accordance with 10 USC § 9063, Designation: Officers to Perform Certain Professional Functions; DoDI 1304.28, Guidance for the Appointment of Chaplains for the Military Departments; Air Force Policy Directive 52-1, Chaplain Corps; and AFI 52-101, Planning and Organizing. This instruction provides general guidance, but chaplain force development will be conducted at the direction of the Air Force Chief of Chaplains.

1.3. Population and Synchronization Panels. AF/A1 and Operations, Plans, and Requirements (AF/A3) established several bodies focused on both population and function. These include:

1.3.1. Force Development Council (FDC). This corporate body will provide an enterprise perspective on Air Force-wide force development objectives, current and future issues, and make strategic-level recommendations to the Secretary of the Air Force, Air Force Chief of Staff/, the Air Force Council, and at a Four Star Summit (CORONA) with the overarching goal of developing future Total Force Airmen to be joint, multi-domain warfighters. The FDC is charged with making decisions on crosscutting force development issues, initiatives, gaps, and solutions that require policy changes and/or resourcing solutions on behalf of the Secretary of the Air Force or Air Force Chief of Staff to meet their established force-development intent. Any policy changes deemed to require higher-level review/approval will be coordinated with the appropriate Air Force policy owner/functional (A1, A2, A3, A4, etc.), elevated to Secretary of the Air Force or Air Force Chief of Staff for decision (i.e., CORONA) and, if approved, prioritized and tasked to bring into the Air Force corporate structure to allocate resources. The FDC synchronizes actions to help the Co-Chairs fulfill their respective assigned mission directives related to force development. The FDC decisions/objectives impacting force-development execution and policy requiring Secretary of the Air Force or Air Force Chief of Staff/ approval will be part of a Force Development Command (AETC)-prepared briefing available to each CORONA on state of force development or can be brought separately by the other Co-chairs as appropriate.

1.3.2. Force Development Panels: Officer, Enlisted, and Civilian. These panels make recommendations relating to effective development and utilization of Airmen. Additionally, they guide future force development efforts and synchronize functional community and institutional initiatives. Specific panel membership is determined by AF/A1D, AF/A1P, and AETC/3/6 for the Officer Force Development Panel, the deputy AF/A1 for the Civilian Force Development Panel, and the Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force (CMSAF) and AF/A1D for the Enlisted Force Development Panel. Administrative support is provided by AF/A1D. Functional authorities/cross functional authorities and issue panels may nominate topics and provide inputs to force development panels.

1.3.3. Air Force Learning Committee. The Air Force Learning Committee (AFLC) is a decision making body providing Senior Leader oversight and guidance regarding enterprise-wide learning issues. The AFLC is responsible for validating new learning requirements, establishing learning priorities and considering effective and efficient learning delivery options for the Total Force. The AFLC focuses on four specific areas impacting the Air Force's Learning environment: ensuring developmental education supports Airmen's Foundational Competencies; ensuring ancillary training is current, relevant and values Airmen's time; providing a forum to review and discuss topics affecting the AF learning enterprise; and addressing areas and issues relevant to the Force Development Council (FDC). HAF/A1DL serves as the executive advisor for the AFLC process, maintains responsibility for policy and has delegated administration and execution duties to HQ AETC/A3K.

1.3.4. Expeditionary Readiness Council (ERC). This council makes Expeditionary Readiness Training policy and guidance recommendations to the Expeditionary Readiness Senior Authority to meet AF Expeditionary Readiness requirements. The Expeditionary Readiness Senior Authority (AF/A3T) approves or disapproves Expeditionary Readiness Council recommendations and serves as the "gatekeeper" for all Expeditionary Readiness Training requirements. The Expeditionary Readiness Council performs the Expeditionary Readiness Senior Authority's gatekeeper function by vetting new Expeditionary Readiness Training requirements or Expeditionary Readiness Training course upgrades, reducing/eliminating redundant Expeditionary Readiness Training requirements, establishing priorities and determining efficient delivery options. The Expeditionary Readiness Senior Authority provides broad, strategic guidance for institutional readiness competency development to improve the focus, currency and relevancy of Air Force Expeditionary Readiness curricula and training and makes recommendations to the AF/A3 on Expeditionary Readiness-related issues requiring senior level Air Force oversight.

1.3.5. Issue Panels. Established to meet a short-term requirement or address new issues. Force development acknowledges the need to develop and manage populations of Airmen assigned to disparate Air Force specialties, but aggregate to produce vital Air Force capabilities. Issue panels provide their development team inputs to the specific functional community career field manager(s) no later than 90 calendar days prior to the start of the scheduled development team session. Issue panel inputs are to include a summary of the requests, to include the grade/rank, Air Force specialty code/occupational series, experience level, and number of valid personnel authorizations that must be filled.

1.4. RegAF Officer and Department Of The Air Force Civilian Development Teams.

1.4.1. Development Team Establishment. Force development for RegAF officers and Department of the Air Force civilians is managed by development teams. Development teams should develop an understanding of both officer and civilian resources and requirements, and ensure all career field members are provided with appropriate development opportunities. Functional managers should integrate officer and civilian development teams to the maximum extent possible.

1.4.2. Development Team Chair. The development team chair must be an O-6/GS-15 (or equivalent) or higher; however, for developmental education development teams, the development team chair must be a general officer or member of the senior executive service. (T-1). Grade/rank requirements waivers should be requested in writing to AF/A1D prior to the start of each development team meeting (see Attachment 13). Typically, the functional authority will appoint the functional manager as the development team chair. If the functional manager is unable to fulfill this role, the functional authority will appoint a representative, ideally the career field manager, unless it is a developmental education development team session.

1.4.3. Development Team Membership. Determined by the functional manager and includes the following: Development team chair; career field manager; key force development stakeholders: must be O-6/GS-15 or higher (e.g., Air Staff Directors/Deputy Directors, Air Staff-level subject matter experts, Major Command-level functional leadership); joint service representation stakeholders for applicable development team sessions (e.g., when vectoring individuals to joint opportunities): this representation may be a development team member with joint experience; Air Reserve Component stakeholders for applicable development team sessions (e.g., when reviewing Air Reserve Component candidates); panel guests: may include individuals from a different functional community to provide an outside perspective/insight; assignment team/career field team representation designated by the career field manager; representatives from cross-functional authorities when applicable.

1.4.4. Voting members. Voting members will be O-6/GS-15 (or equivalent) or higher. Exceptions to the rank/grade of voting members require a waiver from AF/A1D. Requests must be submitted and approved prior to the start of each development team (see Attachment 14). Ideally, development teams should have no more than 50 percent turnover of members from meeting to meeting. In addition to the career field managers, voting members may include the following: key force development stakeholders such as Air Staff Directors/Deputy Directors or Air Staff-level subject matter experts, Major command-level functional leadership; joint service representatives; Air Reserve Component representatives; wing commanders/directors/equivalents (i.e., Senior Materiel Leaders).

1.4.5. Development Team Responsibilities.

1.4.5.1. Will identify education, training, and experiences appropriate for officers and civilians within each functional community based on current and future requirements.

1.4.5.2. Will understand career field policies, plans, programs, training, and actions affecting career field management and development, and take these issues into consideration when making personnel decisions and vectors.

1.4.5.3. Will use total force assessments, career pyramids, and manning products to make informed vector recommendations and assist functional managers and career field managers with updating this guidance based on career field dynamics as well as current and projected personnel requirements.

1.4.5.4. Will prepare senior leaders with a comprehensive understanding of both functional and institutional personnel requirements.

1.4.5.5. Will balance institutional and functional requirements for utilization of individual officers and civilians.

1.4.5.6. Will assist in the development of career fields to meet institutional, functional, and cross-functional requirements.

1.4.5.7. DELETED

1.4.5.8. DELETED

1.4.5.8.1. DELETED

1.4.5.8.2. DELETED

1.4.5.9. Will determine where to invest the right developmental opportunities and develop those who have been cross-flowed into the career field.

1.4.5.10. Will remain cognizant of key force management efforts and provide vectors based on projected/anticipated, aggregated requirements by level and position type.

1.4.5.11. Will ensure those with necessary qualifications are vectored for appropriate opportunities.

1.4.5.12. Will ensure career field senior leadership becomes familiar with individuals assigned to their functional area, making assessments of members' potential for future opportunities.

1.4.5.13. Will identify and provide special attention to high-potential officers.

1.4.5.13.1. Senior rater inputs are given primary consideration in making high-potential officer determinations. High-potential officers demonstrate depth and expertise through exceptional performance in functional skills, and excel in the areas of managing resources, leading people, improving the unit and executing the mission.

1.4.5.13.2. The number of high-potential officers may vary by career field and talent level in a given year group and will decrease as officers have opportunities to demonstrate leadership capabilities. To prevent unintended effects to both those identified, and not identified, the specific outcomes of high-potential officer decision processes/tracking (e.g., names and targeted high-potential officer positions) will not be publicly shared or released.

1.4.5.14. To provide consistent expectations for officers, as well as standardization to process and outcomes, all development teams will provide developmental vectors. When possible, these will be conducted in conjunction with other face-to-face meetings (i.e., developmental education and squadron command selection) or virtually when dictated by time or budget constraints. Developmental vectors will be provided at five mandatory trigger points: O-4 selection, intermediate developmental education outplacement, squadron command outplacement (except Judge Advocate Generals/Chaplains), O-5 selection, and senior developmental education outplacement. Additional trigger points may be added at development team discretion for specific career field development (i.e., at the 5-year point, to provide an assignment vector prior to the O-4 board). Vectors will be based on a 3- to 5-year projection. In order to ensure vectors are aligned with appropriate development and progression, career fields must maintain current and comprehensive career field pyramids and ensure dissemination to the career field. Vectors will be loaded in the Assignment Management System for individual viewing.

1.4.5.15. Will ensure deliberate outplacement strategies are in place for individuals vectored to long-term training opportunities (e.g., fellowships/internships), preferably to a position in career field pyramids or as described in Airman development plans/individual development plans or the framework for the Civilian Leadership Development Continuum (see Attachment 12).

1.4.5.16. Will provide vectors/inputs for individuals to applicable follow-on assignments that will best capitalize on their newly obtained knowledge and skills.

1.4.5.17. Will plan for all officers vectored to National Defense University joint schools for senior developmental education to be assigned to joint duty upon graduation. The only exception will be O-6 selects matched by the annual Command Screening Board, Judge Advocate, medical, and chaplain officers.

1.4.5.17.1. Where standard joint duty assignment billets are unavailable or limited, AFPC/DP3 will coordinate other joint options to ensure compliance (e.g., JS/J1-approved 365-day temporary duty assignment or cross-career field utilization).

1.4.5.17.2. Joint Advanced Warfighting School graduates will be outplaced to designated combatant command joint planner billets. To meet this intent, development teams should only consider first and second look senior developmental education nominees when vectoring individuals to Joint Advanced Warfighting School.

1.4.5.17.3. Will ensure personnel vectored for joint-duty assignment consideration are of sufficient quality to achieve promotion rates in accordance with joint promotion objectives outlined in 10 USC § 662, Promotion Policy Objectives for Joint Officers.

1.4.5.17.4. Will outline procedures to ensure the qualifications of Joint Qualified Officers are such that joint promotion objectives can be achieved as outlined in AFI 36-2135, Joint Officer Management.

1.4.5.18. Before vectoring to National Defense University, will consider the mandatory follow-on assignment along with the overall career timing of the individual.

1.4.5.19. Will provide major command functionals the entire squadron commander candidate list and offer a slate of at least three candidates for the hiring officials (unless there is a limiting factor). Hiring officials can request alternate names from the entire list through the major command functional. When requests are unable to be fulfilled or resolved within, or across major commands, the functional managers/development teams will work with the major command functionals and/or numbered Air Force commanders to resolve/determine the candidate's final placement. Note: Squadron command selection message will take place after the Developmental Education Designation Board results are released.

1.4.5.19.1. When the hiring official determines the candidates are not an acceptable match, the hiring official has the right of refusal. Alternate names may be requested from the entire list through the major command functional. The hiring authority must select an individual from the identified candidate list.

1.4.5.19.2. Will provide feedback to senior raters if their top two stratified squadron command nominees fall below the development team primary candidate cutline for the squadron command candidate list. This feedback will be provided within 21 business days after the completion of the development team meeting for the senior rater to provide mentoring upon public release. Feedback must include rationale and functional perspective. When the senior rater is not Air Force (i.e., joint) feedback will be provided to the individual's senior Air Force advisor. Feedback must be provided through direct, email or telephone contact.

1.4.5.20. Will validate and endorse self-nominated GS-14/15 candidates for Civilian Strategic Leadership Program.

1.4.5.20.1. Will identify and vector other highly-qualified GS-14/15 candidates in their functional community for Civilian Strategic Leadership Program participation. If vectored directly by the development team, candidates will have the ability to accept or decline Civilian Strategic Leadership Program consideration.

1.4.5.20.2. Will provide each Civilian Strategic Leadership Program select a suggested priority order for three categories of Civilian Strategic Leadership Program positions: joint, Headquarters Air Force, and installation-level positions.

1.4.5.20.3. Will identify a follow-on functional assignment for individuals currently in a Civilian Strategic Leadership Program assignment.

1.4.5.21. Will provide vector recommendations for civilians selected for resident developmental education programs during the first development team session following the annual public Developmental Education Designation Board release.

1.4.5.22. Will provide vector recommendations for civilians selected for career broadening developmental assignments at least 1 year prior to completion of the program.

1.4.5.23. Will provide individual career feedback to officers, civilians, senior raters, and commanders/directors.

1.4.5.24. In conjunction with assignment teams/career field teams, will review the results of their developmental vectoring to ensure Airmen are receiving meaningful and actionable feedback.

1.4.5.25. Will determine Developmental Education Designation Board nominations (civilian) and vectors (military), squadron command and squadron director candidate lists, Advanced Studies Group nominations, and AF/A1-approved functionally sponsored development programs. Major command vice commanders may request AF/A1 approval to conduct squadron command and squadron director panels separately from the development team sessions.

1.4.5.26. Will approve the civilian pool of highly qualified employees for assignment to Key Career Positions.

1.4.5.27. Will provide career field feedback to ensure opportunities and expectations are transparent to functional communities At a minimum, development teams will provide a post-development team webinar/video teleconference to functional community personnel and leadership. The webinar/video teleconference and briefing notes will be posted to a website that is accessible to members of the functional community. At a minimum, webinar topics will include: Panel membership, number of individuals nominated/vectored for developmental education, number of developmental education slots available, number of individuals nominated for squadron command (officers), projected number of squadron command positions available, number of individuals selected as squadron command candidates, elements of a successful individual's record (e.g., stratification, awards/recognition, special selections and assignments).

1.4.5.28. Will review career field Air Expeditionary Force posturing and coding to ensure capabilities are visible and properly aligned in the Air Expeditionary Force.

1.4.5.29. Will consider cross-functional developmental and utilization requirements (see paragraph 1.3.5) when recommending vectors for their officers and civilians. Development Team chairs (in coordination with career field managers, and assignment teams/career field teams) must use cross-functional authority-provided input to ensure these cross-functional requirements are appropriately addressed during development team sessions. Finally, development teams should provide feedback to cross-functional authorities on the requirements cross-functional authorities provided prior to the development team session.

1.4.5.30. Will determine development team meeting dates and agenda items.

1.4.5.30.1. Development teams will meet at least once per year. Specific times will be determined by the functional manager but will align with the development team battle rhythm (see Attachment 9). RegAF Development Team meetings will be held at the Air Force Personnel Center and must be coordinated with AFPC/DP3. Waivers to this requirement must be submitted to AF/A1D for approval.

1.4.5.30.2. Will provide development team meeting dates to AFPC/DP2ND no later than 60 days prior to the start of each development team meeting. AFPC/DP3 will post development team meeting dates on the respective Development Pages in myPers.

1.4.5.30.3. At least once per year, will begin development team meetings with an overview of existing and projected requirements, to include existing 365-day deployment opportunities and existing and projected authorized strength.

1.4.5.31. Career field-specific force development efforts, to include automated systems designed to support functional force development initiatives, must be approved by AF/A1D. Appropriate major command and Air Staff functionals will report progress of such efforts to AF/A1D quarterly or as directed.

1.5. RegAF Enlisted Force Development.

1.5.1. Enlisted Functional Advisory Councils and Enlisted Development Teams Overview. Enlisted deliberate development is realized through the guidance, direction, and execution of Functional Advisory Councils and enlisted development teams. Through Functional Advisory Councils and enlisted development teams, enlisted career field leadership executes progression and succession planning to ensure there are sufficient personnel and skill sets available to accomplish the mission. The Functional Advisory Council also validates the career progression roadmap by reviewing career field requirements against career field inventory.

1.5.1.1. Progression planning is the responsibility of the career field managers and applies to all personnel in the career field. For most Air Force specialty codes, the progression plan developed through the Specialty Training Requirements Team and the Utilization & Training Workshop is sufficient to technically develop Airmen in the grades of E-1 through E-7. The career field manager utilizes input from the Functional Advisory Council and enlisted development team to develop and adjust the career field progression plan as needed.

1.5.1.2. Succession planning is the responsibility of enlisted development teams and entails identifying key developmental positions and key leadership positions. Succession planning typically happens at the E-7 through E-9 grades. Enlisted development team requirements beyond this must be validated by the Functional Advisory Council and approved by AF/A1D.

1.5.1.2.1. A key developmental position is used to complement leadership qualifications. These positions are utilized to provide experience necessary for key leadership positions that may not be gained through the normal assignment system. The number of key development positions identified should be sufficient enough to support the succession planning for career field key leadership positions. The goal is to maintain a bench of qualified personnel with the requisite experience for Air Force Personnel Center to fill key leadership position vacancies.

1.5.1.2.2. A key leadership position is defined as a unique, “no-fail” position with distinguishing responsibilities and education, training, experience, or performance requirements that cannot be realized through normal progression planning, and may not be prevalent in the majority of the career field. These positions are not to be confused with specially-designated functional positions such as key nuclear billets, although those billets may also be defined as key leadership positions. Positions designated as key leadership positions should represent only a small percentage of authorizations within any Air Force specialty code and grade to support the unique requirements of the career field.

1.5.2. Roles and Responsibilities.

1.5.2.1. The AF/A1 will:

1.5.2.1.1. Provide updated guidance on Functional Advisory Councils and enlisted development teams to functional authorities, functional managers and career field managers annually.

1.5.2.1.2. Provide force management and sustainment data as required by Functional Advisory Councils and enlisted development teams.

1.5.2.2. Air Force Chief Master Sergeants (CMSgt) Management Group (AF/A1LE) will:

1.5.2.2.1. Utilize enlisted development team vectors to fill identified CMSgt positions upon vacancy consistent with needs of the Air Force.

1.5.2.2.2. Publish Enlisted Quarterly Assignment Listing (EQUAL)-Plus advertisements for positions identified by career field managers through the enlisted development team process and approved by functional managers.

1.5.2.2.3. Vet volunteers against the enlisted development team vector list and select the most eligible volunteer. If there are no volunteers, the most eligible Airman on the enlisted development team vector list will be selected for the position. All discrepancies will be reconciled between the Chiefs' Group and career field manager. Position vectors remain valid until updated by career field managers through the enlisted development team process.

1.5.2.3. Functional Managers will:

1.5.2.3.1. Chair the Functional Advisory Council (unless delegated to a designated representative) and determine Functional Advisory Council membership. (T-1).

1.5.2.3.2. Provide guidance to Functional Advisory Council membership to ensure force development processes are in support of career field management and planning. (T-1).

1.5.2.3.3. Review the Functional Advisory Council findings and approve/disapprove recommendations as appropriate. The Functional Advisory Council recommendations should include whether an enlisted development team is warranted and needed to facilitate vector requirements. Recommendations to hold enlisted development teams and/or create additional Enlisted Quarterly Assignment Listings (EQUAL) Plus advertisements will be forwarded to the major command functional manager and functional assignment manager at Air Force Personnel Center if approved. (T-1).

1.5.2.3.4. Develop a charter for their respective enlisted development team and review annually, revising as appropriate. Charters will be submitted to A1DI for approval. If the Functional Advisory Council has recommended that an enlisted development team is not warranted, the functional manager will submit a Memorandum For Record stating justification to A1DI for approval. (T-1).

1.5.2.3.5. Chair the enlisted development team (unless delegated to a designated representative) and determine enlisted development team membership. The enlisted career field manager may execute the enlisted development team on behalf of the functional manager. (T-1).

1.5.2.3.6. Approve the removal or cancellation of assignment for Airmen ineligible for key leadership positions upon recommendation by the career field manager and Air Force Personnel Center. (T-1).

1.5.2.4. Enlisted career field managers will:

1.5.2.4.1. Consult Air Force Directorate of Force Management Policy (AF/A1P) and Air Force Directorate of Manpower, Organization and Resources (AF/A1M) on force management, force sustainment, and force requirement data analysis and execution. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.2. Identify the career field's key developmental positions and key leadership positions. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.3. Ensure duty titles within their career field are standardized in accordance with AF Handbook (AFH) 36-2618, The Enlisted Force Structure and the needs of their functional area. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.4. Facilitate the enlisted Functional Advisory Council. Summarize the Functional Advisory Council's recommendations, submit to the functional manager for consideration and, if applicable, forward enlisted development team approval to the functional assignment manager at Air Force Personnel Center. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.5. Ensure the Functional Advisory Council validates key developmental positions and key leadership positions and coordinates with the owning manpower office to code the positions with a D-prefix on the respective unit manpower documents. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.6. Assign developmental special experience identifiers to specific types of positions to vector enlisted Airmen, as appropriate. For example: major command functional manager – special experience identifier 1CA; Air Education and Training Command Training Manager – special experience identifier 1CB; Superintendent (Large Squadron) – special experience identifier 1CC; Superintendent (Small Squadron) – special experience identifier 1CD. These special experience identifiers will be utilized to identify Airmen vectored to key positions only, and are not associated with any special experience or training. Note: Special experience identifiers 1CA-1CO have been reserved specifically as developmental special experience identifiers, and will be updated and removed by AFPC/DPO. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.7. Schedule enlisted development teams, as necessary, to perform succession planning for key developmental positions and key leadership positions. (T-1).

1.5.2.4.8. Develop a vector worksheet and solicit information from enlisted Airmen being considered for enlisted development team vectoring, as needed. If used, career field managers should give Airmen reasonable time to complete and return the worksheet prior to the enlisted development team. Information may include the Airmen's developmental preferences and volunteer statement regarding assignments for which they may be qualified. (T-1).

1.5.2.5. Air Force Personnel Center (AFPC/DP2) will:

1.5.2.5.1. Coordinate with career field managers (and designated representatives) to provide access to personnel information necessary to conduct the enlisted development teams. (T-1).

1.5.2.5.2. Provide guidance, as needed, to career field personnel responsible for loading personnel data into the existing enlisted development team tool for use by enlisted development teams. Note: For enlisted development teams held in venues other than Air Force Personnel Center, on-hand technical support for the enlisted development team tool may not be available. Limited reach-back phone support will be available. (T-1).

1.5.2.5.3. Utilize enlisted development team vectors to fill identified D-prefix positions upon vacancy and/or career field manager/major command functional manager request, and in line with Air Force needs. Current enlisted development team vector lists will be consulted and the most eligible member will be selected. (T-1).

1.5.2.5.3.1. If there are no volunteers, the most eligible non-volunteer on the enlisted development team vector list will be selected for the position. Any discrepancies will be reconciled between the Air Force Personnel Center and the career field manager. Position vectors will remain valid until updated by career field managers through the enlisted development team process. (T-1).

1.5.2.5.3.2. If the enlisted development team vector list is exhausted and a vacancy occurs in a key leadership position, the Air Force Personnel Center will notify and work closely with the career field manager to determine the most effective means to fill the position. (T-1).

1.5.2.5.4. Coordinate with enlisted career field managers in situations where Airmen assigned or projected to key leadership positions are ineligible based on the position requirements. Final approval authority will rest with functional managers. (T-1).

1.5.2.6. Enlisted career field leadership at lower levels (i.e., flight chiefs or squadron superintendents) will:

1.5.2.6.1. Review and understand career field health and development goals. (T-1).

1.5.2.6.2. Review capabilities of local personnel inventory in comparison with career field goals. (T-1).

1.5.2.6.3. Utilize existing resources and the career field progression plan to develop Airmen. (T-1).

1.5.2.6.4. Maintain Unit Personnel Manpower Roster to ensure vectored members are assigned against the appropriate key developmental position/key leadership position. (T-1).

1.5.3. Enlisted Functional Advisory Councils. Functional Advisory Councils will prepare senior leaders with a comprehensive understanding of functional, cross-functional and institutional personnel requirements pertaining to a particular career field and advise on management strategies to sustain and improve capabilities. (T-1).

1.5.3.1. Functional Advisory Council Establishment. Functional Advisory Councils are established to determine the necessity for enlisted development teams. Functional Advisory Councils should convene at least annually and should make every effort to be held in conjunction with other career field meetings where a majority of the Functional Advisory Council and enlisted development team members will be in attendance. Alternatively, Functional Advisory Councils may be held virtually (Defense Connect Online, Video Teleconference, etc.). (T-1).

1.5.3.2. Functional Advisory Council Membership. The functional manager chairs the Functional Advisory Council (unless delegated) and determines membership. (T-1).

1.5.3.2.1. The Functional Advisory Council should include the career field manager and major command-level functional leadership as well as other key force development stakeholders. (T-1).

1.5.3.2.2. Certain cross-functional communities (e.g., Nuclear, Cyberspace, Test and Evaluation, and Acquisitions) have valid force development requirements involving Airmen assigned to functional Air Force specialty codes. Representatives from these communities may attend applicable Functional Advisory Councils with prior approval from the functional manager. (T-1).

1.5.3.3. Functional Advisory Council Responsibilities.

1.5.3.3.1. Will validate the career progression roadmap by comparing career field needs (requirements) against career field capabilities (inventory), providing a summary of projected requirements (to include grade, Air Force specialty code, experience level, and number of valid personnel authorizations that must be filled). (T-1).

1.5.3.3.2. Will identify developmental goals of the career field. Discussions should include topics such as cross-functional requirements review, releasing Airmen and Guardians for opportunities outside the specialty code, preparing Airmen and Guardians for institutional Air Force and Space Force leadership positions, and sustaining perishable skill sets. (T-1)

1.5.3.3.3. Will determine career field capability to satisfy identified requirements, meet developmental goals and perform the mission. Any capability gaps must be resolved through changes in progression plan, force management initiatives or enlisted development teams (for example, requiring 18 to 24 months practical experience in two separate core functional areas prior to an Airman receiving their 7-skill level). (T-1).

1.5.3.3.4. If Functional Advisory Council chair responsibility is delegated, the Functional Advisory Council provides the functional manager a recommendation for executing an enlisted development team. A recommendation to conduct an enlisted development team should only be provided if the Functional Advisory Council identifies either of the following conditions exist: (T-1).

1.5.3.3.4.1. Key developmental positions are necessary to provide Airmen specific education, training or experience which cannot be obtained through normal training/education, progression planning, or assignment processes. (T-1).

1.5.3.3.4.2. Key leadership positions (as defined in paragraph 1.5.1.2.2) require Airmen to have specific education, training, experience, or performance qualifications. (T-1).

1.5.3.3.5. If an enlisted development team is executed, the Functional Advisory Council should utilize enlisted development team feedback to identify existing and potential career field capability gaps. (T-1).

1.5.3.3.6. Will review Career Field Education and Training Plan for progression currency. (T-1).

1.5.3.3.7. Will communicate developmental goals to the career field through an updated career progression roadmap, and provide direction to career field leadership. Career field feedback can be accomplished through emails to major command functional managers for dissemination, hosting Webinars, or other similar process. (T-1).

1.5.4. Enlisted Development Teams. Enlisted development teams provide vectors based on projected (or anticipated) requirements by grade, level, and position type. A vector is an enlisted development team's collective recommendation for an experience level, training or education opportunity, or position type for an Airman's next or subsequent assignment. Enlisted development assess Airmen's qualifications and potential for future opportunities. Enlisted development teams must be executed in the most cost-efficient manner possible. This includes taking full advantage of remote capabilities, conducting enlisted development teams in conjunction with other scheduled meetings, and minimizing the need for Air Force Personnel Center support and resources to execute enlisted development teams.

1.5.4.1. Enlisted Development Team Establishment. An enlisted development team will only be established and executed upon recommendation by the Functional Advisory Council and approval by the functional manager. When scheduling enlisted development teams, consider the timing of promotion releases for the designated ranks. Prior to execution of the enlisted development team, the career field manager will determine the eligibility criteria (for all personnel within a given rank) and coordinate with the Functional Assignment Manager at the Air Force Personnel Center to identify eligible personnel that will be considered for vectoring. This allows the enlisted development team to review current force capabilities in comparison to the career field requirements.

1.5.4.2. Enlisted Development Team Membership. The functional manager chairs the enlisted development team (unless delegated) and determines the membership. Ideally, the enlisted development team would include the career field manager, major command-level functional leadership, and other career field strategic-level subject matter experts at the Senior Master Sergeant (SMSgt) and/or CMSgt levels. Exceptions to the rank/grade of voting members require a waiver from AF/A1D. The career field manager may chair the enlisted development team on behalf of the functional manager.

1.5.4.3. Enlisted development teams will understand career field policies, plans, programs, training, and actions affecting career field management and development, and will take these matters into consideration when vectoring. There are four distinct phases of enlisted development team operations: planning, preparation, execution, and post execution. The planning phase is where the enlisted development team pre-work begins. The career field manager initiates the process by delivering an official message to the eligible personnel in the respective career fields.

1.5.4.3.1. In the preparation phase of the enlisted development team, enlisted career field managers will:

1.5.4.3.1.1. Coordinate with the Air Force Personnel Center on the date and location of the enlisted development team. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.1.2. Coordinate with the Air Force Personnel Center to identify Airmen eligible for vectoring. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.1.3. Designate a career field representative to coordinate with the Air Force Personnel Center on all transactional matters (i.e., load personnel data into the development team tool). (T-1).

1.5.4.3.1.4. Solicit input from individuals and their leadership through vector worksheets, and/or review recommended "Future Roles" on the Enlisted Performance Report. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.2. During the execution phase, the enlisted development teams will:

1.5.4.3.2.1. Review the career field health and developmental goals. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.2.2. Review identified key developmental position and key leadership position requirements and qualifications. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.2.3. Review personnel records of identified eligible personnel. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.2.4. Vector qualified personnel for key developmental positions and key leadership positions based on requirements. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.2.5. If required, vector non-qualified Airmen to key developmental positions in order to obtain the experience necessary to qualify them for key leadership positions. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.2.6. Determine if there are enough qualified Airmen in the current inventory to meet projected vacancies in key leadership positions. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.3. During the post-execution phase, enlisted career field managers will:

1.5.4.3.3.1. Provide vectors to ARPC Directorate of Assignments (ARPC/DPA) and AF/A1LE. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.3.2. Provide feedback to eligible Airmen and their leadership. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.3.3. Establish a method to provide aggregate feedback to the entire career field regarding the enlisted development team process, career field goals and other appropriate information. Webinars have been very successful in delivering this feedback. Career field personnel should receive feedback and guidance in a deliberate and organized manner. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.3.4. DELETED

1.5.4.3.3.5. DELETED

1.5.4.3.3.6. DELETED

1.5.4.3.3.7. Develop/maintain enlisted development team minutes (required) to capture the overarching guidance, processes utilized, number of personnel vectored, and lessons learned from the enlisted development team. (T-1).

1.5.4.3.3.8. Provide the Functional Advisory Council feedback to drive any needed changes to the career field progression plan or sustainment strategy. (T-1).

1.6. Executing Air Force Reserve Force Development.

1.6.1. Roles and Responsibilities. All supervisors, commanders, and leaders must encourage Reserve Citizen Airmen to fully participate in voluntary aspects of force development. Specific responsibilities include the following (T-1):

1.6.1.1. The Air Force Reserve Senior Leader Management Office (AF/REG) is responsible for the management and oversight of all Air Force Reserve general officer, O-6 and senior enlisted key and strategic positions to effectively and efficiently develop, sustain and utilize Air Force Reserve senior leaders. Centralized management of Air Force Reserve senior leader positions will further enable the Total Force by optimizing inherent strengths of each talent pool for building a dynamic senior leader cadre to meet current and future institutional requirements. AF/REG serves as the administrative lead for the Reserve Command Screening Board and the Reserve Brigadier General Qualification Board for eligible reserve officers.

1.6.1.2. Directorate of Personnel, Office of the Chief of the Air Force Reserve (AF/REP) provides strategic direction, policy development/oversight and legislative interpretation for force development programs.

1.6.1.3. Directorate of Programs and Requirements (AF/REX) is the authority on Air Force Reserve manpower, resource programming, and management.

1.6.1.4. Directorate of Manpower, Personnel and Services (AFRC/A1) implements policy for the overall career management and force development programs, in conjunction with AF/REP, Air Reserve Personnel Center and the Individual Reserve Readiness Integration Organization. The Chief, Personnel Division, Manpower, Personnel and Services, Headquarters Air Force Reserve Command, (HQ AFRC/A1K), directs programs that provide information, guidance and opportunities for Reserve Citizen Airmen to serve a rewarding career. Within AFRC/A1, the following organizations have unique responsibilities:

1.6.1.4.1. AFRC/A1C. Provides oversight of the Air Reserve technician program and functional authority on all matters affecting Air Reserve technicians and civilian personnel.

1.6.1.4.2. AFRC/A1K. Executes Air Force Reserve force development policy and provides operational guidance for the force development process, professional military/developmental education and training, and recommends policy direction to AF/REP. HQ AFRC/A1K is the chair for the Force Management and Development Working Group and functions as the administrative arm for the Air Force Reserve Force Management and Development Board and Force Management Council.

1.6.1.4.3. AFRC/A1M. Provides oversight and is the functional authority for Air Force Reserve Command manpower authorizations and resourcing issues.

1.6.1.5. Air Reserve Personnel Center. The Air Reserve Personnel Center executes policy and procedure at the tactical level of the force development program managing all transactional aspects of the process(es). Within the Air Reserve Personnel Center, the following organizations have unique responsibilities:

1.6.1.5.1. ARPC/DPA. ARPC/DPA is the Center's focal point for a multitude of force development functions. They are responsible for management and execution of the in-residence developmental education Student Assignment Facilitation program for all Air Force Reserve Command members, regardless of status, to appropriate follow-on opportunities. AF/REG manages O-6 and O-6(s) follow-on assignments and informs DPA who will provide follow-on assignment updates to AF/RE throughout the academic year. DPA is the managing organization for assignment actions for O-5s and below into key and joint duty assignment list positions.

1.6.1.5.1.1. ARPC/DPA provides management and oversight of the Active Guard and Reserve program on all matters affecting Active Guard and Reserve personnel (O-5 and below) including assignments and the Active Guard Reserve Review Board.

1.6.1.5.1.2. ARPC/DPA is responsible for executing annual boards including 48 specific career field developmental teams, biannual Reserve School Selection Board, Reserve Developmental Education Designation Board, Enlisted Developmental Education Board, Reserve Command Screening Board, Command Chief Screening Board, and Reserve Stripes for Exceptional Performers II promotion board.

1.6.1.5.2. Joint Officer Management. Manages the Air Force Reserve's joint officer management program in conjunction with Joint Staff at the Pentagon. The joint officer management service manager will provide coordination on all assignments for O-5 and below into/out of joint duty assignment list billets prior to consummation. AF/REG will notify the Air Force Reserve joint officer management service manager on all O-6 and above joint duty assignment list assignments prior to consummation. The joint officer management team executes all Air Force Reserve Command joint duty assignment list actions, per the guidance provided in AFI 36-2135, Joint Officer Management.

1.6.1.6. Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization. The Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization provides oversight of the Individual Mobilization Augmentee and Participating Individual Ready Reservist programs and is the authority on all matters affecting individual mobilization augmentee and participating individual ready reservist personnel. The Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization implements policies concerning individual mobilization augmentees and participating individual ready reservists in conjunction with AFRC/A1, AF/REP and the Air Reserve Personnel Center. The career field manager/major command functional manager, Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization and appropriate detachment commanders must coordinate on all individual mobilization augmentee and participating individual ready reservist key/command/joint deliberate assignment actions. No internal moves affecting joint positions will be consummated without joint officer management service manager coordination. Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization and detachment commanders must include the career field manager/major command functional managers and ARPC/DPA on all force development manpower changes and actions.

1.6.1.7. Numbered Air Force Commanders. Numbered Air Force commanders provide oversight to respective reporting organizations and are the authority on all matters affecting Air Reserve technicians, traditional reservists and unit Active Guard and Reserve personnel. The career field managers/major command functional managers and assignment facilitators must coordinate on all key/command/joint deliberate assignment actions though Numbered Air Force commanders. Numbered Air Force commanders will include the career field managers/major command functional managers on all force development manpower changes and actions.

1.6.1.8. Reserve Functional Manager. Reserve functional managers are senior leaders within a career field appointed by the AFRC/CC. The Reserve functional manager provides day-to-day strategic-level direction and authority over specific functional community requirements and overall management of a functional career field. While they should maintain an institutional focus with regard to resource development and distribution, Reserve functional managers are responsible for ensuring their specialties are equipped, developed, and sustained to provide Air Force capabilities. Headquarters Air Force Reserve Command full-time directors fulfill the Reserve functional manager role to ensure consistency and continuity. They must appoint a career field manager and major command functional manager (the Reserve functional manager and career field manager may be the same) in writing to HQ AFRC/A1, with notification to ARPC/DPA.

1.6.1.9. Career Field Manager (officer)/Major Command Functional Manager (enlisted). The career field manager is appointed by the Reserve functional manager on behalf of the AFRC/CC and represents a single functional family. A career field manager/major command functional manager may be responsible for more than one specialty or multiple career field managers may be appointed within a single career field. Major command functional managers are appointed by the Reserve functional manager and are responsible for the management of designated enlisted career fields. The career field managers/major command functional managers provide strategic-level direction and are the overall authority on behalf of the Reserve functional manager for Reserve Air Force specialty code-specific requirements and serves as subject matter experts for career field specific guidance. They monitor the health and manning of their career fields and elevate concerns to Reserve functional managers. They manage command training for their career field and disseminate career field policies and program requirements throughout the command. AFRC/A1K will maintain a current list of career field managers/major command functional managers. Career field managers must be an O-6/GS-15 (or equivalent) and major command functional managers must be a CMSgt for enlisted personnel (any other grade requires a waiver by the owning Reserve functional manager). Specific responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

1.6.1.9.1. Maintaining career field pyramids outlining experience, education and training needed for positions.

1.6.1.9.2. Identifying position distribution by grade and status.

1.6.1.9.3. In coordination with the appropriate assignment organization (AF/REG or ARPC/DPA) providing hiring official with a prioritized list of qualified candidates from the key personnel listing, Reserve Command Screening Board, Reserve Brigadier General Qualification Board and sitting O-6 commanders to fill key/command/joint vacancies.

1.6.1.9.4. The career field managers will serve as chair for their officer development team, unless the Reserve functional manager appoints another career field senior leader.

1.6.1.9.5. Major command functional managers are responsible for career field messaging and notifying eligible members of upcoming development team schedules and requirements. Major command functional managers will serve as chair for enlisted development teams, determine panel membership, maintaining career field key personnel listing, and are also responsible for the release of post-board vectors.

1.6.1.10. Functional Area Manager. The functional area manager is appointed by the career field manager on behalf of the Reserve functional manager and should be the most highly knowledgeable and experienced person within the functional area and have the widest range of visibility over functional area readiness and capability issues. Functional area managers are accountable for the management and oversight of all personnel and equipment within a specific functional area to support operational planning and execution. Responsibilities may include, but not limited to:

1.6.1.10.1. Developing and reviewing policy and training.

1.6.1.10.2. Developing, managing, and maintaining unit type codes.

1.6.1.10.3. Developing criteria for and monitoring readiness reporting, force posturing and analysis.

1.6.1.11. Commanders and other leaders. Commanders, command chiefs, superintendents, supervisors/raters, program managers, career field managers/major command functional managers, and senior Reserve Citizen Airmen play a vital role in force development. Each individual (Reserve Component, RegAF or civilian) should understand and be committed to Total Force development. Individual assessment, mentorship, and feedback are essential elements in achieving a well-rounded workforce. Leaders will:

1.6.1.11.1. Ensure each Reserve Citizen Airman receives tactical-level mentoring to reach their full potential.

1.6.1.11.2. Educate, coach, and encourage individuals to participate fully in the force development process.

1.6.1.11.3. Understand the Air Force Reserve force development process, as well as the respective force development requirements and career path for the various functional communities.

1.6.1.11.4. Assist Reserve Citizen Airmen in assessing and fulfilling their developmental objectives and career goals utilizing tools such as career field pyramids and individual ribbon charts.

1.6.1.11.5. If a Reserve Citizen Airman submits Reserve-development plan, carefully consider his/her potential and provide honest assessment on the Reserve-development plan. This feedback should occur both before the development plan is submitted and after it has been reviewed by the development team (development teams balance the desires of the individual with the mission needs of the Air Force Reserve; therefore, career vectors may not match individual desires).

1.6.1.12. Force Management Council. The Force Management Council approves and provides overall policy guidance on education, training, and experience equating to career, force management, and development of Air Force Reserve personnel. As necessary, the council reviews the progress and metrics of fielded programs to ensure established objectives are satisfied. The Force Management Council consists of the following members: AFRC/CC (Chair), AFRC/CV, AFRC/CCC, 4 AF/CC, 10 AF/CC, 22 AF/CC, HQ AFRC/DS, AF/REP (Advisory), ARPC/CC (Advisory), HQ AFRC/A1 (Advisory), and HQ AFRC/FM (Advisory). Only primaries may attend unless otherwise approved by AFRC/CC.

1.6.1.13. Air Force Reserve Force Management and Development Board. The Air Force Reserve Force Management and Development Board reviews and/or develops proposed policy guidance on education, training, and experience equating to career force management and development of Air Force Reserve personnel. As necessary, the council reviews the progress and metrics of fielded programs to ensure established objectives are satisfied. Provides oversight and manages taskings and efforts of the Air Force Reserve Force Management and Development Working Group. The Air Force Reserve Force Management Development Board consists of the following members: AFRC/CV (Co-Chair), AF/RE-D (Co-Chair), HQ AFRC/DSD, AF/REG, AF/REP, AF/REX, FGC/CC, ARPC/CC, HQ AFRC/A1, HQ AFRC/FM, HQ AFRC A-Staff Directors, a wing commander from each numbered Air Force, and one wing command chief from each numbered Air Force serving as the numbered Air Force representatives for a 2-year tour. Attendance is for primaries only.

1.6.1.14. Air Force Reserve Force Management and Development Working Group. The Force Management and Development Working Group is the entry point for all initiatives on education, training, and experience equating to career force management and development of reserve personnel. As necessary, the Force Management and Development Working Group reviews their progress and metrics of fielded programs to ensure established objectives are satisfied. The Air Force Reserve Force Management and Development Working Group consists of the following members: HQ AFRC/A1K (Chair), HQ AFRC/A1C, HQ AFRC/A1L, HQ AFRC/A1M, HQ AFRC/FMD, AF/REG Deputy, AF/REP Deputy, Chief of Air Force Reserve Manpower Division, HQ Readiness and Integration Organization (RIO)/CC, ARPC/DPA, three career field manager representatives and three major command functional manager representatives.

1.6.1.15. Individual. Each Reserve Citizen Airman is responsible for determining his/her availability for development opportunities. It is incumbent upon each individual to learn about force development processes, seek guidance from leaders and other mentors and determine goals/desires for their own development. The Reserve-development plan is the tool to communicate their desires regarding their level of force development participation. Officers complete the Reserve Officer Development Plan and enlisted complete the Reserve Enlisted Development Plan located on the virtual Personnel Center. Air Reserve technicians interested in civilian development may complete an Individual Development Plan located on the myPers webpage and follow the guidance for civilian force development in this instruction. Reserve Citizen Airmen may choose not to participate in the formal force development process for any cycle with the understanding they may miss out on education, training and career guidance from career field senior leaders.

1.6.1.15.1. When possible, final submission of a Reserve-development plan is through the first O-6 or higher in the rating chain. For individual mobilization augmentees, detachment commander is acceptable if O-6 equivalent in the member's chain of command does not have access to the virtual Personnel Center. Enlisted members follow the recommended routing of two-level coordination (rater/rater's rater).

1.6.1.15.2. Failure to submit a Reserve-development plan within the last 12 months prior to a member's respective development team session, and according to deadlines established by ARPC/DPA, will remove Reserve Citizen Airmen from consideration for that development team cycle. Failing to meet a development team can result in reduced opportunities.

1.6.2. Force Development. The purpose of Air Reserve Force Development, as an element of Total Force Development, is to create a reserve force that is responsive to Air Force requirements and managed as an integral part of the Total Force. The goal is to produce Reserve Citizen Airmen who possess the tactical expertise, operational competence and strategic vision to lead and execute the full spectrum of Air Force missions. The purpose of force development is to:

1.6.2.1. Maximize capabilities of all Reserve Citizen Airmen to ensure the Air Force Reserve Command can provide the right leader at the right time for air, space and cyberspace power in support of Air Force requirements. The methods applied to the force may differ slightly by career field as developmental methods are tailored to suit unique career field requirements and the availability of Reserve Citizen Airmen.

1.6.2.2. Ensure opportunities and expectations are transparent to all Reserve Citizen Airmen.

1.6.2.3. Develop a pool of qualified candidates for strategic senior leadership positions.

1.6.2.4. Deliberately connect all education, training, and experience opportunities (to include developmental education, assignments, deployments) to best leverage the continuum of learning that builds and enhances cross-functional, foundational and occupational competencies that meet Air Force Reserve needs in and across career fields.

1.6.2.5. Create standardization to the fullest extent possible among all career fields to ensure a consistent force development program.

1.6.2.6. Enhance Reserve Citizen Airmen's understanding of their role in force development, using their inputs regarding desires for developmental education, future assignment opportunities, and provide feedback to inform and shape expectations.

1.6.2.7. Leverage information technology to provide useful tools to facilitate/enhance personnel decision processes and to maximize the capabilities of all Reserve Citizen Airmen.

1.6.3. Air Force Reserve Officer.

1.6.3.1. Identified key, command and joint duty assignment list positions will be managed by the command and the appropriate career field manager. Each career field manager in coordination with career field senior leaders, must review their career field key, command and joint duty list annually to determine if changes are needed. Along with the career field managers, senior leaders in each career field determine "key" positions within their career field, which would provide the experiences necessary to develop Reserve Citizen Airmen and equip them with the right capabilities to potentially become Total Force senior leaders. Command positions referenced on the key/command/joint list are all O-6 commander positions determined by organization manpower requirements. Numbered Air Force commanders may identify O-5 squadron commander billets as key and staff recommendations via the established process for approval by AFRC/CV and /or AF/RE-D. Joint duty assignment list positions are determined by the joint staff and are considered key experiences for development. Eligible candidates for key/command/joint positions include individuals listed on Reserve development team Key Personnel Lists, in-resident developmental education students, sitting O-6 commanders, Reserve Command Screening Board, and Reserve Brigadier General Qualification Board selects.

1.6.3.2. Assignments into key/command/joint positions will have a three-year tour length and a focused rotational movement. This turnover ensures breadth of experience in conjunction with the depth reservists obtain within their core Air Force specialty. The combination of depth and breadth in education, training and experience will ensure the Air Force Reserve has Reserve Citizen Airmen ready to take leadership roles at the strategic/enterprise levels in the Air Force Reserve, Air Force or Department of Defense. Attaining overall force development goals requires career management to achieve the following objectives:

1.6.3.3. Will deliberately connect individual education, training and experience opportunities to build competencies that meet Air Force Reserve needs within career fields.

1.6.3.4. Will ensure the Air Force Reserve invests the right education, training, and experience in the right individual at the right time within the Reserve Citizen Airmen construct by developing personnel processes and utilizing competitive selection, to support this objective.

1.6.3.5. Will enhance Reserve Citizen Airmen, supervisors, and commanders understanding of their roles in managing reserve careers through the development team process and provide feedback to inform and shape individual expectations.

1.6.3.6. Officer Force Development. Tactical, operational and strategic level opportunities are common to all career fields. Officers must establish solid experience at the tactical and operational levels in a primary career field. At the field grade level, reserve officers should explore gaining a breadth of experience via assignments, unique opportunities, education and training. While a majority of officers will choose to remain at the tactical/operational level providing depth of expertise and leadership in a particular field, it is imperative that some continue to increase their development at the more strategic levels. A small percentage of officers across career fields will have the opportunity to apply for deliberately managed key/command/joint positions with levels of responsibility and leadership at the higher end of the operational arena and strategic level. These individuals will have increased opportunities for breadth of experience within Department of Defense, Air Force, Air Reserve Component, and joint levels.

1.6.3.6.1. Officer career paths have historically been depicted in career field pyramids, indicating upward progression and implying fewer types of jobs exist at senior levels. Career pyramids provide an overview of professional development throughout an officer's career and a general career model with specific details for each Air Force specialty.

1.6.3.6.2. Career field pyramids reinforce that there is no "set path" to senior leadership, but there are fundamental building blocks or pillars. Civilians should reference AFMAN 36-606, Civilian Career Field Management and Development for career field specific pyramids.

1.6.3.6.3. Career field pyramids reflect developmental education opportunities. Developmental education opportunities include both appropriate-level military education and specialized education that develop officers either within their career field or prepare them for an assignment outside of their core career field.

1.6.3.7. Assignment Facilitators. Assignment facilitators reside at the Air Reserve Personnel Center and are the primary conduit between the career field managers, development team panels and the Reserve Citizen Airmen.

1.6.3.7.1. The primary purpose of assignment facilitators is to coordinate with the career field managers in developing and facilitating the Air Force Reserve officer career field-specific force development execution actions. These actions include: planning and execution of development teams, conducting post-development team actions, field communications regarding assignment opportunities, general career counseling, and Reserve-development plan assistance and management. Assignment facilitators will:

1.6.3.7.1.1. Provide individual Reserve Citizen Airmen with general career counseling to include Reserve-development plan assistance, assisting career field managers with executing development team goals, general information on assignment opportunities in line with development team vectors.

1.6.3.7.1.2. Review and track key/command/joint assignment opportunities, prepare vacancy announcements, send to pre-determined population, and collect packages. Upon close out, assignment facilitators will consolidate applicant packages, compare to development team Key Personnel Listing results, and prepare listings of qualified officers for career field managers to provide to the hiring authority and other senior leaders as required.

1.6.3.7.1.3. Provide information and coordinate support to the career field manager for development team events. Required information includes a general overview of the type of utilization and/or development opportunities so development teams can provide realistic and actionable vector recommendations. Assignment facilitators will ensure all vectors are presented to career field managers/major command functional managers within the prescribed timeline (see Table 1.1.).

1.6.3.7.1.4. Identify officers who are eligible to meet a given development team and prepare materials to present to the development team, as needed.

1.6.3.7.1.5. Identify measurable data to be analyzed and tracked to ARPC/DPA.

1.6.3.7.1.6. Assist development team chair/career field managers with maintaining development team charters. Maintain Key Personnel Listings, awareness of projected key/command/joint position changes, and key/command/joint position descriptions.

1.6.3.7.1.7. Disseminate career field information on behalf of the career field manager.

1.6.3.7.1.8. Assist career field managers with maintaining a Potential Reassignment List (officers only) and notifying O-5s and below no later than 6 months prior to term limit expiration. Assignment facilitators will assist members with reassignment opportunities.

1.6.3.7.1.9. Develop and provide career field managers with email messages and other communication requirements to forward to career field members.

1.6.3.7.1.10. Conduct telecon with key players (career field managers, major command functional managers, ARPC/DPA, Board Operations) to review potential eligible pool to discuss the impact of standard filter waivers 151 days prior to the development team.

1.6.3.7.2. Assignment facilitators may be required to execute enlisted development teams as determined by ARPC/DPA Superintendent.

1.6.4. Air Force Reserve Enlisted.

1.6.4.1. Nominative and key/strategic E-9 positions. The Senior Enlisted Management Division (AF/REG) in coordination with AFRC/CCC, provides oversight of Air Force Reserve senior enlisted personnel assigned to key/strategic E-9 positions at the major command level and above. These key/strategic positions provide exposure, experience and continued growth for our senior enlisted leaders within the Total Force environment. The positions are typically classified as Active Guard and Reserve or Individual Reserve billets and carry a 3-year term limit. Key/strategic positions include all major command, Office of the Secretary of Defense, joint, agency, Field Operating Agency, Direct Reporting Unit, and select E-8/E-9 positions. Eligible candidates for key/strategic positions include individuals listed on the Reserve development team Key Personnel List.

1.6.4.1.1. The intent is to fill key/strategic E-9 vacancies utilizing the Command E-8/E-9 Key Personnel List. The Key Personnel List is established annually by the Command E-8/E-9 Development Team and maintained by AF/REG. If selected, members are placed on the E-8/E-9 Key Personnel List for a period of 1 year. In addition to the E-8/E-9 Key Personnel List, the major command functional managers will establish and manage separate functional area Key Personnel Lists. The major command functional manager Key Personnel List will be used for positions requiring functional expertise.

1.6.4.1.2. Nominative opportunities are received from AF/A1LE in the form of a Request for Nomination. When determining qualified applicants for nominative positions, AF/REG, in coordination with AFRC/CCC, will review eligible candidates from the E-8/E-9 Key Personnel List and contact the member(s) to confirm availability for a career broadening opportunity. If the member is interested in the opportunity, AF/REG will coordinate nomination package(s) through AFRC/CCC and AF/RE for approval. Upon approval, the nomination package(s) will be forwarded to AF/A1LE for distribution to the hiring authority. The nominee may or may not be contacted for an interview. If selected, the member will be placed in an Active Guard and Reserve or extended active duty status for the duration of the assignment annotated in the request for nomination. AF/REG will assist member with the assignment process through ARPC/DPA.

1.6.4.1.3. For key/strategic positions funded by Air Force Reserve Command, the hiring authority will complete necessary candidate reviews, determine a selectee, notify ARPC/DPA of their selection. ARPC/DPA will contact the member, make the official job offer and execute the transactional portion of the assignment. Note: Candidates on any E-8 or E-9 Key Personnel List should be given strong consideration for key/strategic opportunities. Functional area Key Personnel List members should also be given strong consideration for those jobs that require functional area expertise.

1.6.4.1.4. If a member of the E-9 Key Personnel List applies for a key/strategic vacancy and a non-Key Personnel List member is selected, the hiring authority must apply for waiver approval through AF/REG to the approval authority. If there are no E-9 Key Personnel List applicants for an E-9 key/strategic vacancy, and a non-Key Personnel List E-8/E-9 is selected over E-8 Key Personnel List applicants, the hiring authority must apply for a waiver approval through AFRC/CV (T-1). Waivers with written justification must be provided to AF/REG who will coordinate the request with the major command functional manager, AFRC/CCC, the approval authority, and AF/RE as needed. If approved, the non-Key Personnel List member may be hired. If the request is disapproved, the hiring authority must reconsider the pool of applicants, or re-announce the vacancy.

1.6.4.1.5. Enlisted key/strategic positions are reviewed and validated biennially by major command functional managers, AFRC/CCC and AF/REG.

1.6.4.2. Enlisted Force Development. The focus of enlisted force development is to develop Airmen by integrating skills, abilities, goals and desires with the needs of Air Force Reserve Command in correlation with AFH 36-2618, The Enlisted Force Structure. Enlisted force development provides deliberate and organized career development initiatives while maintaining the Reserve Citizen Airmen culture and the integrity of all reserve categories. These initiatives coincide with education, training and experience to meet the operational and strategic challenges of the Air Force Reserve. AFRC/CCC will oversee the enlisted force development program through AFRC/A1. AFRC/A1K will manage the enlisted force development program and advise the AFRC/CCC. AF/REG will manage the senior enlisted nominative positions process. AF/REP will coordinate with AF/A1D ensuring Air Force Reserve requirements are considered when Air Force policy is written or changed and in coordination with AFRC/A1, will author the necessary policy guidance for the Air Force Reserve. Senior leaders must be committed to developing the enlisted force utilizing a qualified candidate pool to meet current and future leadership requirements through robust assessment, mentorship, and feedback. Senior leaders are also entrusted to educate, mentor, and encourage Reserve Citizen Airmen to fully participate in the force development process.

1.6.4.2.1. Enlisted Reserve Citizen Airmen are encouraged to make a strong personal commitment toward professional and personal development beyond formal schools offered. They are also encouraged to embrace responsibility for ensuring continued growth for themselves and others so they are ready for the next level.

1.6.4.2.2. Major command functional managers will appoint Air Force specialty subject matter experts for their respective career fields. Each subject matter expert will research and identify their professional developmental opportunities beyond the formal Air Force schools and will maintain a complete list of educational opportunities and provide it to Reserve Citizen Airmen at all levels.

1.6.4.2.3. Major command functional managers maintain the list of key/strategic positions and review projected vacancies to ensure appropriate placement of individuals. Major command functional managers and/or AF/REG work with hiring authorities and senior leadership to evaluate candidates and make assignment recommendations.

1.6.4.2.4. AF/REG will manage enlisted Active Guard and Reserve and Individual Reserve key/strategic positions at the major command level and above. In coordination with major command functional managers, AFRC/CCC, AF/RE and AFRC/CC, AF/REG will deliberately manage personnel included in the annual E-8/E-9 Key Personnel List as well as those currently residing in a key/strategic position. Incumbents in key/strategic positions not selected to the Key Personnel List should strive to complete the necessary requirements, increasing the likelihood for selection to positions of greater responsibility.

1.6.4.2.5. The Command E-8/E-9 development team will be held at ARPC/DPA to review records and the Reserve-enlisted development plans for E-8s and E-9s across the command. It is the member's responsibility to ensure his/her desires and goals are identified on his/her Reserve-enlisted development plan and submitted to ARPC/DPA by the established deadline.

1.6.4.2.6. Enlisted Development Teams. Enlisted development teams will be held biannually for each enlisted career field to review E-7 through E-9 records; however, smaller career fields may review E-6 and below records during the enlisted development team with HQ AFRC/A1KO approval. Typically, major command functional managers will hold enlisted development teams at ARPC; smaller career fields (<250 records) may request to hold their enlisted development team at Air Force Reserve Command through AFRC/A1KO.

1.6.4.2.7. Enlisted Facilitators. Air Reserve Personnel Center-based enlisted facilitators are the primary conduit between AFRC/A1K, major command functional managers and development team panel members. The primary purpose of enlisted facilitators is to prepare and execute enlisted development teams and the Command E8/E9 development team.

1.6.4.2.8. Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel. The Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel provides oversight, takes action and makes recommendations on the deliberate development and utilization of enlisted Citizen Airman. Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel membership and guidelines are outlined in the Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel Charter. The panel is chaired by AFRC/CCC and co-chaired by the Chief of Enlisted Force Development (HQ AFRC/A1KO). The Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel will meet three times per year at various venues with additional meetings as requested by the chair.

1.6.5. Deliberately Managed Positions. While RegAF assignments are deliberate and normally term-limited, most reserve assignments are not. It is imperative for Reserve Citizen Airmen to gain depth in their career field to provide a solid developmental foundation. To meet the needs of Total Force development, the Air Force Reserve must ensure certain assignment opportunities are deliberately managed and have standardized turnover within the Citizen Airman construct. In addition to depth, broadening through assignments is essential to developing our future force. The four pillars of Air Force Reserve senior leader development are assignments in: command, joint positions (to include joint experience and/or joint duty assignment list), National Capital Region, and above wing level.

1.6.5.1. Key/command/joint positions provide qualified Reserve Citizen Airmen access to senior leader roles. Further, to foster strong succession planning, it is essential the Air Force Reserve standardize turnover for all key/command/joint and key/strategic positions. This will ensure the success of Air Force Reserve mission sets and the continued development through the right experiences, within all reserve categories. (Reference AFI 36-2110 for key/command/joint assignment execution details).

1.6.5.2. Key/command/joint position assignments. All key/command/joint positions are limited to 3-year terms and will be advertised by the appropriate assignment organization (AF/REG for O-6s and ARPC/DPA for O-5 and below). Reserve Citizen Airmen who are assigned to a key/command/joint position will be put on a potential reassignment list. These Airmen will be notified by AF/REG if occupying an O-6 key/command/joint position, or they will be notified by ARPC/DPA if occupying an O-5 or O-4 key/command/joint position of their term expiration in accordance with the signed key/command/joint Statement of Understanding at least 6 months prior to the end of their term. HQ AFRC/A1C manages assignment actions for Air Reserve technician positions and coordinates with the appropriate assignments organization.

1.6.5.3. Overages are not authorized for key/command/joint positions; however, during reassignments there may be overlap of the incoming and outgoing personnel not to exceed 90 days.

1.6.5.4. O-6 eligibility. Officers on their career field Key Personnel List, Reserve Command Screening Board list, Reserve Brigadier General Qualification Board list, or sitting commanders assigned to O-6 commander positions are considered high-potential officers and are qualified to apply for key/command/joint positions. For O-6 command positions an officer must be on the Reserve Command Screening Board or a sitting commander in an O-6 command position to apply or be considered.

1.6.5.5. O-5 and below eligibility. Officers on their career field Key Personnel List or in-resident developmental education students are considered high-potential officers and are highly encouraged to apply for key/joint positions. Final approval authority for assignment into an O-5 or below key/joint position is the hiring authority.

1.6.5.6. In order to assign a non-high-potential officer to a key/command/joint position, a waiver must be submitted in writing through AF/REG for O-6s and ARPC/DPA for O-5 and below. Final approval authority for assignments into O-6 key/command/joint positions is AF/RE-D and/or AFRC/CV, and final approval authority for assignments into O-5 and below key/command/joint positions is the appropriate wing commander or director.

1.6.6. Identification of Key, Command, Joint Positions (Officers).

1.6.6.1. Career field managers and career field senior leaders identify key positions and provide updates annually to HQ AFRC/A1K. Career field managers will provide detailed position descriptions, to include RegAF inputs as appropriate. The command and joint-accrediting positions are designated/coded on the key/command/joint career management product. AF/RE-D and AFRC/CV, with the assistance of career field managers, identify key O-6 billets. Command positions referenced in this document are all O-6 command positions (line and non-line O-6 commander positions) as identified on the unit manning document. Some squadron commander and operations officer positions will be used for force development, but those will be determined by career field managers, appropriate senior leaders and identified as "key" then route via the key position approval process to AFRC/CV and/or AF/RE-D. Joint-accrediting positions are all positions listed on the annual joint duty assignment list publication.

1.6.6.2. AF/REX validates that projected joint duty assignment list billets are valid manpower authorizations.

1.6.6.3. AF/REG maintains the O-6 key/command/joint career management product. AFRC/A1K, career field managers, and assignment facilitators maintain the O-5 and below key/command/joint career management product.

1.6.6.4. Career field managers must review and revalidate their key/command/joint career management product annually. AFRC/A1K will help facilitate this process. Any changes to key/command/joint positions must be identified on an AFRC Form 106, Manpower Change Request, and identified to AFRC/A1KO for coordination/approval. Career field managers are responsible for managing assignments for key/command/joint career positions in coordination with AF/REG, ARPC/DPA, Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization, and selecting officials.

1.6.6.5. Career field managers in coordination with AF/REG and assignment facilitators review projected vacancies for key/command/joint billets to ensure appropriate advertisement, selection, and placement of individuals. Career field managers will work with assignment facilitators (O-5 and below) and/or AF/REG (O-6s) and senior leadership to evaluate candidates and make assignment recommendations; input from the development team will be considered.

1.6.6.6. Once leadership makes a decision and it is approved, career field managers, assignment facilitators (O-5 and below), and AF/REG (O-6) will work with the appropriate assignment authority to complete the action. Assignments will be reviewed for Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act exception and Air Reserve technician career impact.

1.6.7. Identification of Key/Strategic Positions (Enlisted).

1.6.7.1. Major command functional managers review and identify key/strategic positions annually to AFRC/A1K. They provide detailed position descriptions, to include position requirements (i.e., Community College of the Air Force, skill level and experience).

1.6.7.2. AF/REG and HQ AFRC/A1K maintain the list of key positions and position descriptions.

1.6.7.3. Major command functional managers review projected vacancies for key/strategic positions to ensure appropriate placement of individuals. Major command functional managers and/or AF/REG work with hiring authorities and senior leadership to evaluate candidates and make assignment recommendations.

1.6.7.4. Once leadership makes a decision and it is approved, major command functional managers or AF/REG work with the appropriate assignment authority who will complete the action.

1.6.8. In-Residence Developmental Education Student Assignment Facilitation (officers). The Air Force Reserve selects students to attend in-residence developmental education based on a number of factors, including potential to serve as senior leaders. Many students recommended for in-residence developmental education and selected by the Reserve Developmental Education Designation Board to attend will receive a follow-on assignment that uses the applicable skills garnered during the developmental education experience and compliments their rank/grade and Air Force specialty code. Some students may return to their previous assignment. Air Force Reserve selects who accept the quota will be required to sign a statement of understanding acknowledging the student outplacement program guidelines.

1.6.8.1. The Student Assignment Facilitation Panel considers inputs provided by commanders and students, the appropriate assignment vacancies, hiring authorities, as well as the advice of the applicable career field managers and group representatives.

1.6.8.2. The Student Assignment Facilitation Panel will be co-chaired by AF/RE-D and AFRC/CV and will determine when and how often the panel will meet. Student Assignment Facilitation panel membership includes: career field managers who have career field members attending in- residence developmental education, AF/REG/REP, AFRC/A1/A1C/A1K/A1M, ARPC/CC/DPA, numbered Air Force commanders and Headquarters Individual Reservist Readiness and Integration Organization, at a minimum (T-1). The Air Reserve Personnel Center will host the panel.

1.6.8.3. The Student Assignment Facilitation Panel develops a list of recommended matches between the developmental education student and a projected vacancy. Assignments must adhere to HAF directives and Air Force Reserve Command guidance on requirements for placement after completion of specialized developmental education programs (fellowships, School of Advanced Air and Space Studies, other advanced studies schools, and National Defense University schools such as Joint Advanced Warfighting School, Eisenhower School, and National War College which will require a joint duty assignment list tour upon graduation to the greatest extent possible).

1.6.8.4. The Student Assignment Facilitation Panel will primarily pursue/recommend assignments which match the participation status (part-time/full-time) the student held when applying/selected for developmental education unless change in status is required by the outplacement requirements of the school the select is attending or the needs of Air Force Reserve Command.

1.6.8.5. The program intent is to assign developmental education students to positions which maximize the return on investment from in-residence education. In some cases, returning developmental education students to original unit upon completion of developmental education may be appropriate.

1.6.8.6. Hiring authorities must consider student outplacement into their organization or provide justification for disapproval to the AFRC/CV. (T-1).

1.6.8.7. Students are offered/notified of assignments through the normal hiring procedures. The Student Assignment Facilitation Panel will inform AFRC/CC of panel results and student outplacement.

1.7. Air Force Reserve Development Teams.

1.7.1. Overview. The career field manager (officer) and major command functional manager (enlisted) administer force development objectives through the development teams. Development teams play a critical role in developing officers and enlisted to support current and projected mission capabilities. An important purpose of the development teams is to allow career field leaders the opportunity to assess their human capital inventory. Development teams also provide data which must be used for developmental processes (i.e., deliberate developmental education recommendations, assignments, etc.). Developmental teams provide guidance on continuing education, training, and experience opportunities to individual Reserve Citizen Airmen. Development teams at the numbered Air Force-level and below are prohibited. (T-1).

1.7.2. Roles and Responsibilities.

1.7.2.1. Reserve Development Teams. Development teams serve as the Air Force Reserve "front line" in force development. The development team goal is to assemble senior leaders within respective career fields for the purpose of providing actionable feedback and guiding each Citizen Airman to reach their potential. Development teams will:

1.7.2.1.1. Vector personnel toward appropriate education, training, experience, and other opportunities that ensure appropriate timing and development to meet the needs of the Air Force Reserve and the Citizen Airman.

1.7.2.1.2. Assess the career field pool by scoring records based on established criteria and scales, and produce Key Personnel Lists and in-residence developmental education and professional development recommendations.

1.7.2.1.3. Identify the education, training, and experiences appropriate for Reserve Citizen Airmen within each functional community based on current and future requirements. This includes education, and training opportunities funded by the Air Force or pursued as self-development by all Reserve Citizen Airmen. Development teams provide feedback to career field managers/major command functional managers and individuals, and update career field pyramids as necessary.

1.7.2.1.4. Understand career field policies, plans, programs, training and actions affecting career field management and development when making decisions and provide actionable vectors. Development teams must also take into consideration valued skills acquired through years of experience in his/her core Air Force specialty code, civilian experiences, and career broadening in a non-core special duty. These experiences provide future leaders with the critical thinking and problem solving skills to make informed decisions.

1.7.2.1.5. Review the career field pyramid for their respective career field and modify as appropriate. The career field pyramid illustrates development levels and corresponding windows of opportunity for education and training to help focus Reserve Citizen Airmen's expectations and give them a roadmap. Development teams use career field pyramids to make informed vector recommendations and assist career field managers/major command functional managers with updating this guidance based on career field dynamics as well as current and projected personnel requirements (see Attachment 7).

1.7.2.1.6. Development teams will consider cross-functional development and utilization requirements when vectoring Reserve Citizen Airmen. Cross-functional offices of primary responsibility will identify their requirements to career field managers/major command functional managers no later than 90 days prior to each scheduled development team session if opportunities exist.

1.7.2.1.7. Development teams will establish a Key Personnel List by reviewing and scoring Airmen records. Once scores are consolidated via the database, a cut line is determined. Through intentional discussion and review, panel members validate the cut. The Key Personnel List is comprised of individuals with high potential and is used by key/command/joint and key/strategic hiring authorities and may be referenced for other developmental/force development decisions and hiring decisions. High potential individuals are maintained on key personnel lists broken out by grade. ARPC/DPA is responsible for posting and maintaining the officer Key Personnel Lists. All Key Personnel Lists will be posted on a secure site. Career field managers/major command functional managers are responsible for maintaining Air Force specialty code-specific Key Personnel Lists.

1.7.2.2. Prior to career field development teams, an overview of existing and projected requirements should be accomplished by the career field manager and assignment facilitator. Requirements include, but are not limited to, identifying vacancies/projected vacancies and deployment opportunities.

1.7.2.3. A member can be vectored for recommendations for next or subsequent assignments and/or career broadening developmental assignments. Standardized vectors are utilized for all career fields. Additional career field specific vectors may be added. To ensure vectors are aligned with appropriate development and progression, career fields must maintain current and comprehensive career field pyramids and ensure dissemination to the career field.

1.7.2.4. ARPC/DPA will work with career field managers/major command functional managers and AFRC/A1KO to develop the development team calendar year schedule and finalized no later than July of the previous year. Dates are posted on myPers.

1.7.2.5. ARPC/DPA is responsible for execution and facilitation of pre-development team, development team, and post-development team events. Development teams requiring only one panel may be executed at Air Force Reserve Command or virtually. Requests to execute at Air Force Reserve Command or virtually must be staffed through AFRC/A1K

by 30 June of the calendar year prior to the next development team cycle and reflected appropriately on the annual development team calendar. Additional meetings outside of the development team (e.g., board of directors, executive working groups, conferences, briefings, etc.) are the sole responsibility of the visiting team. A minimum of one action officer per panel is recommended (suggested grades: O-3 through O-5 for officer development teams; E-1 through E-6 for enlisted development teams).

1.7.2.6. To ensure consistency across career fields and grow a pool of competitive Reserve Citizen Airmen with capabilities to perform in tactical, operational, and strategic environments standardized filters will be imposed. Individuals who do not meet eligibility filter requirements (filters) may not be scored or vectored. Some development teams may include additional filters unique to their career field. Reserve Citizen Airmen are encouraged to complete their Reserve-development plan by the respective development team suspense date. Air Force Reserve members may only meet one development team per calendar year, unless approved by both career field managers.

1.7.2.7. All Air Force Reserve officers will be vectored by their core ID. Primarily, officers will meet their annual development team based on their core ID. If an officer does not have a core ID, or if they belong to the pseudo-core 16F/P, then they will meet the Special Duty/Non-Core development team. Enlisted members will meet their biannual functional development team, and may meet the Command E8/E9 development team.

1.7.2.8. Board Operations. Responsible for building each career field database prior to the development team to include standardized filters and vectors along with career field-specific filters and vectors. Board operations personnel provide technical expertise. Additionally responsible for collecting data identified by AFRC/A1K to be analyzed and tracked. Board operations personnel will assist with the development of development team metrics and summary. Provides career field managers unit manning documents and unit manpower personnel records for their respective functional career field upon request.

1.7.2.9. Development Team Chair. Development team chair responsibilities include, but are not limited to:

1.7.2.9.1. Determining development team board composition (see paragraph 1.7.3.).

1.7.2.9.2. Ensuring at least one action officer per panel is selected and scheduled for the development team.

1.7.2.9.3. Ensuring the career field pyramid is reviewed and modified, as appropriate, during the development team.

1.7.2.9.4. Providing ARPC/DPA, or designated representative, any career field-specific guidance for development team panel members, including but not limited to, Air Force Specialty Code (AFSC)-specific filters.

1.7.2.9.5. Ensuring vectors are returned to the ARPC/DPA for distribution to the career field in a timely manner (see Table 1.1.).

1.7.2.9.6. Ensuring development team Charter Guidelines (see Attachment 16) are developed and/or reviewed annually in conjunction with career field development team.

1.7.2.9.7. Participating in Air Force Reserve career field manager forum.

1.7.2.9.8. Reviewing their career field key/command/joint list annually to determine if changes are needed. Along with the career field managers, senior leaders in each career field determine the "key" positions within their functional community. These positions will provide the experiences necessary to develop Reserve Citizen Airmen and equip them with the right capabilities to potentially become strategic senior leaders within the Air Force Reserve. Key positions identified must be vetted through the appropriate organizations to the AFRC/CV for final approval via the appropriate tasking tool.

1.7.2.9.9. Reviewing career field manning on a regular basis to ensure all funded positions are visible via the appropriate management tool (such as the Reserve Management Vacancy System) allowing Reserve Citizen Airmen to understand opportunities within every career field.

1.7.2.9.10. Reviewing and validating advanced academic requirements for professional specialties, as well as other professional continuing education needed to meet Air Force requirements. If desired, career field managers/major command functional managers may request a waiver to the standardized filters. The waiver request for officer development teams must be coordinated through AFRC/A1KO to AFRC/CV for approval. The waiver requests for enlisted development teams must be coordinated through AFRC/A1KO to AFRC/CCC for approval. Requests must be forwarded to ARPC/DPA no later than 90 days prior to the development team start date.

1.7.3. Reserve Development Team Membership.

1.7.3.1. Development Team Chair (officer). The career field manager normally chairs the development team; however, the Reserve functional manager may appoint a career field senior leader in lieu of the career field manager. The development team charter reflects the development team chair and membership (see Attachment 17). If the Reserve functional manager appoints someone other than the career field manager as the development team chair, they must provide the name and justification to AFRC/A1K and notify ARPC/DPA. (T-1).

1.7.3.2. Development Team Chair (enlisted). The major command functional manager normally chairs the development team; however, AFRC/A1KO may appoint a senior leader in lieu of the major command functional manager. AFRC/CV or designated representative will act as the senior advisor and AFRC/CCC or designated representative will chair the Command E8/E9 development team. (T-1). A grade waiver template letter is provided at Attachment 15.

1.7.3.3. Development Team Membership. Development team composition will be determined by the career field manager/major command functional manager. When possible, all Air Reserve Forces participation categories should be included. The development teams may include subject matter experts, observers, or action officers. Non-Air Force Personnel are not authorized to be team members. All development team members should serve in a grade/position consistent with the developmental decisions. In addition to the development team chair, voting members of the development team may include key force development stakeholders such as senior leadership from the functional community that best represents the population. (T-1).

1.7.3.3.1. The career field manager/major command functional manager are highly encouraged to include RegAF members and Air National Guard members. They may include sitting numbered Air Force commanders, wing commanders/directors, group commanders, command chiefs, and other designated key personnel as voting members.

1.7.3.3.2. Ideally, development teams should have no more than 50 percent member turnover from one development team to the next. Development teams should have a variety of representatives from career field managers, assignment facilitators, subject matter experts, or career teams (designated by the career field manager/major command functional manager) and/or civilian career field teams (designated by AFRC/A1C) as appropriate, to ensure standardization and provide administrative and logistical support.

1.7.3.4. Enlisted Command (E-8/E-9) Enlisted development team board membership. The enlisted development team chair determines board composition. In addition to the enlisted development team chair, voting members of the enlisted development team may include key E-9 force development stakeholders from across the command (should be on the Key Personnel List). When possible, all Air Reserve Forces participation categories should be included in the enlisted development team board member composition. The enlisted development team chair is highly encouraged to include members of the RegAF and the Air National Guard. This construct is replicated depending on the overall workload and enlisted development team member availability.

1.7.4. Reserve-Development Plan Guidance. The Reserve-development plan is the ultimate tool for Reserve Citizen Airmen to influence the development of their own careers based on their life events and civilian experiences; officers complete the Reserve-officer development plan and enlisted complete the Reserve-enlisted development plan. Title 5 civilians assigned to Air Force Reserve Command organizations and Air Reserve Technicians may complete an individual development plan and be seen by their civilian development team which is hosted at the Air Force Personnel Center. (For additional guidance see Chapter 2 of this instruction.) Development teams begin a new cycle annually. The cycle provides Reserve Citizen Airmen with a fresh venue to update their goals and/or restrictions. Each individual should communicate their personal desires for that year to help development teams determine the most appropriate career opportunities when matched with coordinator recommendations. The force development process hinges on this document to match individual preferences to the needs of the Air Force Reserve.

1.7.4.1. The Reserve-development plan is located within virtual Personnel Center via myPers. At a minimum, the Reserve-development plan should be completed by the member 45 days prior to the scheduled development team. Failure to complete the Reserve-development plan during the prescribed timeline could exclude the individual from the development team process that cycle.

1.7.4.2. Reserve Citizen Airmen should clearly communicate their career goals in the Reserve-development plan. Goals are divided as near-, mid- and long-term. A well-communicated goal should indicate desire for in-residence education, change of assignment (location/status), command, joint duty, or other key developmental opportunities.

1.7.4.3. Impact of Reserve-development plan. Reserve-development plan is the main force development communication tool that allows functional managers and other senior leaders to assess an individual's career path and plan for future opportunities. Development teams can provide a range of senior leadership recommendations based on the Reserve Citizen Airmen's and the coordinator's Reserve-development plan input.

1.7.4.4. Reserve-development plan utilization. Any/all portions of the Reserve-development plan (individual input, senior leader comments, and development team feedback) may be made available to other boards that require information contained in the Reserve-development plan.

1.7.5. Reserve Development Team Operations (face-to-face or virtual). There are four distinct phases of development team operations: planning, preparation, execution, and post execution. Operating procedures for executing development teams are maintained and updated by ARPC/DPA. Open communication between the career field manager/major command functional commander, AFRC/A1K, AF/REP, and ARPC/DPA is essential to aid in planning development team events and in identifying issues/potential conflicts discovered in relation to a development team event. AFRC/A1K should identify measurable data to be analyzed and tracked by ARPC/DPA.

1.8. Executing Air National Guard Force Development (Applies To Air National Guard).

1.8.1. Overview. The vision for Air National Guard Force Development is to create an Air National Guard, which is responsive to local, state/territory/district, and Air Force requirements while simultaneously expanding our pool of future leaders. It is paramount to remember the Air National Guard is predominantly a traditional drill-status force and Air National Guard men and women share their military career with their civilian employers and families.

1.8.1.1. The overall goal of Air National Guard force development is to provide deliberate and organized professional development, tailored to meet Air National Guard and Air Force needs, within the context and culture of the Air National Guard. This is accomplished by developing Airmen with the necessary skills, knowledge and experience to lead and execute current and future mission capabilities.

1.8.1.1.1. The need to provide individuals with joint experiences, higher headquarters level opportunities, Air Expeditionary Force deployments, special duty assignments, and additional supervisory experiences has been identified by the Air National Guard.

1.8.1.1.2. The Air National Guard force development Concept of Operations and State Force Development Toolkit are available on the Air National Guard force development web site at: http://www.ang.af.mil/careers/forcedevelopment to provide basic elements and options to enable each State, Territory, and District to tailor and execute a force development plan to offer Airmen educational and developmental opportunities that meet the needs. Each State, Territory, District, and the Statutory Tour Program must have a force development process and a career management process to evaluate and mentor Airmen assigned to their state (T-1). Since the Air National Guard does not employ a centralized assignment system, force development is conducted by each State, Territory and the District. The Air National Guard Readiness Center centrally manages Guardsmen's force development in the Statutory Tour program.

1.8.1.2. Force Management requires deliberate planning and must be designed to meet Air Force and Air National Guard needs, and also accommodate individual goals and objectives.

1.8.1.2.1. Each State, Territory, and District will have a process to identify positions and opportunities that provide the competencies necessary to become strategic leaders. The work of identifying these positions across the various programs in the Air National Guard and establishing detailed management processes belongs to each State, Territory, and District Joint Force Headquarters, wing, and Statutory Tour Program. At the direction of the Director, Air National Guard, National Guard Bureau Human Resources (NGB/HR) will maintain a national-level program to provide opportunities for Air National Guard members to complete an Air National Guard Headquarters and/or a major command assignment. The State, Territory, and District selection processes are necessary to validate candidates for this national-level program and indicate recommended follow-on assignments. (T-1).

1.8.1.2.2. To facilitate planning for our members, a structured timeline within the Air National Guard Force Development program is essential. Solicitation for nominations must be timed to coincide with availability of opportunities, whether they are educational or experiential. This timeline must also coordinate with programs outside the influence of the Air National Guard (i.e., intermediate developmental education/senior developmental education class start/completion dates, fiscal year, Air Expeditionary Force cycles, etc.). A calendar of events is published on the Air National Guard force development website.

1.8.2. The Force Development construct. The force development program consists of: a) centralized management within each State, Territory, District, and the statutory tour program; b) development teams focused on competency development within an organizational unit or functional group; and c) direct communication with individual Air National Guard members. Each of these components is described below along with examples of available support tools.

1.8.2.1. Centralized Management. To implement force development each State, Territory, and District, and Statutory Tour program will have a central body—Force Development Council—that accounts for opportunities and resources under its control.

1.8.2.1.1. The Force Development Council has the authority to centrally manage the development of Air National Guard Airmen under its control. It will identify education or assignment vectors for Airmen utilizing structured criteria such as career gates, prior education/assignments, and developmental potential.

1.8.2.2. Competency Development. Each State, Territory, and District Force Development Council may also be supported by force development teams which focus on the development of a subset of Air National Guard members. The subset may be defined by organization or command structure (i.e., a wing or a group) or by function or classification (i.e., rated officers, enlisted maintainers, medical specialty, company grade officers, Junior Non-commissioned officers). Development teams can be established at each wing, geographically separated units, or where needed to provide individuals with developmental vectors. Establishing development teams is one of the first and most powerful steps an organization can take to create the culture change necessary to enact force development.

1.8.2.2.1. Development teams are composed of supervisors and/or commanders who collectively review Individual Development Plans and provide developmental vectors to the Airmen under review. The developmental opportunities available to members within a specific functional area or command structure will vary from team to team. These opportunities include, but are not limited to, attending professional education courses, broadening or special duty assignments, and future deployments.

1.8.2.2.1.1. The focus of the development team is to assess each member's potential and deliberately plan a vector to promote and develop competencies to make the member an effective future Air National Guard leader.

1.8.2.2.1.2. Development teams are also a forum to identify the strengths, competencies, and transferrable skillsets a member brings from non-military, civilian experiences. As an organization, it is important to acknowledge the strength of the skillset traditional members bring to the organization through their civilian experience.

1.8.2.2.1.3. The establishment of development teams allows visibility into military and civilian talents at a local level where the knowledge can be used to enhance the organization and further develop the member.

1.8.2.2.2. Force development teams differ from Force Development Council, which focus on small groups, by ensuring that every member in the organization is aware of, and able to participate in, force development from the beginning to the end of their career.

1.8.2.2.3. Force development teams can use tools, like the career field pyramids to facilitate necessary one-on-one communication by laying out a potential career development path to provide development vectors.

1.8.2.3. Individual Communication. The foundation of force development is direct communication between the supervisor/commander and the Airman regarding the member's goals and aspirations. Each individual's goals and potential are unique. Therefore, the force development process needs to allow for varying paths and "on/off ramps" to account for changes in the Airman's availability to pursue a developmental opportunity.

1.8.2.4. Tools. Tools are available to assist States/Territories/Districts establish or renew force development programs in the Air National Guard Force Development Concept of Operations and on the Air National Guard force development web site: http://www.ang.af.mil/careers/forcedevelopment. This site also facilitates unit-to-unit sharing of best practices and lessons learned.

1.8.2.5. Functions. Force Development Councils and development teams should meet at least once per year, or more often as necessary. Force Development Council and development team members should work together to ensure proper execution of the force development construct and will:

1.8.2.5.1. Be aware of the Air Force and Air National Guard overall mission requirements at the local, State, Territory, District, and national level.

1.8.2.5.2. Oversee personnel development to meet functional community and broader Air Force and Air National Guard institutional requirements, while balancing the desires of the individual.

1.8.2.5.3. Highlight civilian competencies which are transferable to Air National Guard competencies.

1.8.2.5.4. Understand an individual's developmental preferences.

1.8.2.5.5. Balance individual desires and availability with institutional requirements.

1.8.2.5.6. Take into account commander/senior rater recommendations and assessments of developmental potential.

1.8.2.5.7. Evaluate and recommend individual Airmen for special developmental opportunities to include developmental education.

1.8.2.5.8. Make recommended "development vectors" for individual Airmen designed to optimize their potential skills development over time.

1.8.2.5.9. Provide developmental feedback to Airmen and commanders/supervisors using a Development Plan.

1.8.3. Developmental Education. Education is a vital investment in our people and force development recognizes the necessity of providing the right education to the broadest possible group of Airmen, both to develop them individually and to meet Air National Guard requirements.

1.8.3.1. As States, Territories, and Districts implement force development, the selection process will be structured to encourage senior raters, commanders, and command chiefs to identify and nominate their best candidates who have indicated the desire to attend in-residence schools.

1.8.3.2. State, Territory, and District Joint Force Headquarters and the National Guard Bureau Force Development Councils will validate candidates and indicate recommended follow-on developmental assignments. As developmental education opportunities are limited, all future leaders may not be able to attend traditional in-residence developmental education programs.

1.8.4. Joint-Duty Assignments. Force Development Councils and development teams must ensure Air National Guard members vectored for joint-duty assignment consideration are of sufficient quality to achieve promotion rates in accordance with joint promotion objectives outlined in 10 USC § 662.

1.8.5. Program Measurements and Metrics. Force development requires a quantitative form of measurement to capture gains (or losses) on resources invested in program execution. The Air National Guard Force Development Program Manager has established baseline measures of Air National Guard participation levels and achievement of specific force development indices. Periodic measurement and trend analysis will be used to evaluate program implementation and goal attainment.

1.8.5.1. The identification of individual member achievement of the force development indices provides an initial list of high potential or competitive Airmen within the Air National Guard organization. The creation of State, Territory, and District Force Development Councils capable of vetting or endorsing high potential Airmen will enhance the value of this force development product and assist in directing resource use.

1.8.5.2. The development of State, Territory, and District measures of success or criteria is encouraged. Criteria may be objective or subjective as determined by the needs of the individual State, Territory, and District or unit.

1.8.6. Communication and change management plan. The Air National Guard Force Development Program Manager has implemented a robust force development communication plan to inform Airmen, commanders, and supervisors of changes that will occur with the Air National Guard force development program. The communication plan is designed to ensure a coordinated, well-timed strategy for internal and external use by states and territories.

1.8.6.1. All levels of leadership must be committed to force development. (T-1).

1.8.6.2. Citizen Airman's time is respected by Air National Guard leadership.

1.8.6.3. There is a clear vision for developing Airmen to become the tactical, operational, and strategic leaders of tomorrow.

1.8.6.4. It is understood that Force Development Concept of Operations drives a process and attitude change throughout the Air National Guard.

1.8.6.5. Air National Guard leadership should be prepared to implement and facilitate these changes.

1.8.6.6. A platform is provided that allows different avenues for Air National Guard members to balance the needs of the unit, their family and their employer.

1.9. DSE. DSE will be identified and tracked to aid Airmen in attaining competencies.

1.9.1. DSE criteria. Use the following criteria as a guide to validate an experience as a DSE:

1.9.1.1. An immersive hands-on experience requiring active participation/involvement in positions, events, or activities leading to the accumulation of knowledge or skill that can be utilized to meet mission requirements.

1.9.1.2. An experience outside the scope of Air Force formal training that has been validated as a potential means for Airmen to obtain specific foundational, occupational, or joint competencies that not everyone is required to receive or encounter.

1.9.1.3. Leads to gaining or increasing the proficiency level of an Air Force foundational or occupational competency.

1.9.1.4. Produces stable, consistent, and reliable results each and every time.

1.9.1.5. Involves one or more types: Joint, Interagency, Multinational, Intergovernmental, Nongovernmental, Experience with Industry, Occupational, and Institutional.

1.9.1.6. The Force Development Command (AETC) will:

1.9.1.6.1. Develop and implement DSE processes and procedures.

1.9.1.6.2. Provide a system to capture and catalog DSE opportunities; and document and track the competencies gained at the appropriate proficiency level.

1.9.1.7. AETC/A3 will:

1.9.1.7.1. Review and validate DSE opportunities submitted by organizations or individuals using a formal process.

1.9.1.7.2. Record validated DSEs in the current AF learning catalog.

1.9.1.7.3. Provide DSE competency assessment tools.

1.9.1.7.4. Update AF members on the current process to obtain credit for DSEs accomplished in the AF system of record.

1.9.1.8. Functional Authorities/Total Force Career Field Managers will submit DSE opportunities to AETC/A3 for validation and inclusion in the current AF learning catalog.

1.9.1.9. Air Force Personnel Center (AFPC) or appropriate personnel servicing agency will coordinate with Development Teams and/or an Airman's leadership/supervisor to assign personnel to applicable DSEs.

1.9.1.10. Commanders/Supervisors will:

1.9.1.10.1. Submit DSEs through the designated medium for validation and inclusion in the current AF learning catalog. (T-1).

1.9.1.10.2. Provide feedback to the DSE providers, organizers, points of contact, and AETC/A3 to ensure that DSEs are up-to-date and are meeting required developmental results. (T-1).

1.9.1.10.3. Use assessment tool provided to determine the competency and proficiency level attainment on a member they supervise under a sponsored DSE. (T-1).

Chapter 3

DEVELOPMENTAL EDUCATION

3.1. Overview-Developmental education. Developmental education refers to an array of resident, non-resident, and blended educational opportunities composed of formal and experiential programs including but not limited to graduate education, service and joint professional military education, fellowships, and education with industry. This chapter details roles and responsibilities and provides compliance standards with regard to developmental education program administration and eligibility for the Total Force. While this chapter governs formal aspects of developmental education, commanders and civilian equivalents should provide a work environment that supports development for the Total Force. Taking mission requirements into consideration, leaders should authorize Airmen time to participate in developmental education during the duty day.

3.2. Program Roles and Responsibilities.

3.2.1. Commanders and Leaders. All commanders and leaders should encourage personnel to take advantage of resident and distance learning educational opportunities in accordance with the Secretary of the Air Force and Air Force Chief of Staff education expectations. Specific responsibilities include the following:

3.2.1.1. The Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Manpower and Reserve Affairs (SAF/MR) will:

3.2.1.1.1. Serve as an agent of the Secretary to provide direction and oversight for all matters pertaining to the formulation, review, and execution of plans, policies, programs, and budgets addressing developmental education.

3.2.1.2. The Deputy Chief of Staff, Manpower, Personnel and Services (AF/A1) will:

3.2.1.2.1. Provide strategic objectives and advocacy for Air Force developmental education programs.

3.2.1.2.2. Present developmental education programs and concepts to the Air Force Board for consideration. Note: The Air Force Board reviews budgetary issues concerning pricing, execution, and executability of Air Force programs.

3.2.1.2.4. DELETED

3.2.1.2.5. DELETED

3.2.1.2.6. DELETED

3.2.1.3. The Directorate of Force Development (AF/A1D) will:

3.2.1.3.1. Provide policy oversight, issue standing and intervening developmental education guidance, and allocate quotas and resources for developmental education programs to include distribution of space-available seats to sister service and interagency partners.

3.2.1.3.2. Determine rules for developmental education eligibility, selection, and removal criteria with regard to resident and distance learning programs for enlisted personnel.

3.2.1.3.3. DELETED

3.2.1.3.4. Publish annual developmental education programming requirements, establish eligibility policy and quotas at Air Force and non-Air Force schools, and determine participation quotas and rates in Air Force professional military education programs for non-Air Force personnel. Exception: Major commands may authorize increases or decreases in Airman Leadership School production to accommodate major command (MAJCOM) enlisted professional military education production requirements and constraints.

3.2.1.3.5. DELETED

3.2.1.3.6. Act as waiver authority for all exceptions to post-program assignments (all requests will first be coordinated through AFPC).

3.2.1.3.7. Oversee the Air Force Learning Committee and Air Force Education Requirements Board described in Attachments 21 and 22.

3.2.1.22.2. Advise enlisted members of fitness standards requirement to attend resident professional military education. Enlisted members must have a current passing Air Force Fitness Assessment (FA) prior to attending any resident professional military education, with the exception of members who are pregnant or post-partum (within their 12-month post-partum FA deferment period) and receive approval from their PCM or OB/GYN to attend. This must be annotated within an AF Form 469, Duty Limiting Condition Report and AF Form 422, Notification Of Air Force Member's Qualification Status that member is cleared to attend without the need for routine OB/GYN care and can perform physical activities they are comfortable performing. Prior to members attending they will send their AF Form 469 and AF Form 422 to their PCM or OB/GYN for approval followed by sending to the school 14 days prior to class start date. The school will provide a list of physical activities and events included in the curriculum so PCMs and OB/GYNs are aware. There should be no pressure or expectation that a pregnant or post-partum Airmen perform an event and/or activity they are not able to perform. If a member does not want to attend, there is no expectation to attend the resident professional military education during pregnancy or post-partum FA deferment period. This is not applicable if member is pregnant/post-partum but has another duty limiting condition that would require an Exception to Policy (ETP). This policy will be applicable to Total Force Airmen. For members attending any resident professional military education course that is less than 6 months in duration, a passing Air Force fitness assessment must be current through course completion. (Exception: Members medically exempt, deployed and unable to complete a fitness test prior to attendance as approved by the commandant of the school the officer will attend. Pregnancy/post-partum does not require any exemption, only an AF Form 469 and AF Form 422 with concurrence from PCM or OB/GYN to attend and notification to the school). (T-2).

3.2.1.22.3. Counsel all individuals who are considering declination of resident developmental education attendance. Commanders will emphasize the positive benefit of completing resident developmental education and implications of declining. (T-3).

3.2.1.22.4. Process deferment requests in accordance with this instruction and Education and Training Course Announcement procedures. (T-2).

3.2.1.23. Selected Individuals will:

3.2.1.23.1. Immediately identify mission-related, medical, or personal hardship circumstances that may impact school attendance to their chain of command. (T-2).

3.2.1.23.2. Initiate process to obtain (or renew) appropriate security clearance upon notification of selection to attend a resident developmental education course. See Education and Training Course Announcement for the applicable security clearance required. (T-2).

3.2.1.23.3. Comply with developmental education school prerequisites and guidelines for school attendance.

3.2.1.23.4. Coordinate appropriate medical profile documentation to their respective wing training manager and obtain approval to attend developmental education school no later than 35 days prior to class start date. Provide the appropriate fitness or medical profile documentation to the respective school upon arrival. (T-2).

Terms

Advanced Academic Degree—Any graduate or post-graduate degree awarded by an accredited degree-granting institution.

Advanced Distributed Learning (ADL)—An evolving, outcomes-focused approach to education, training, and performance aiding that blends standards-based distributed learning models emphasizing reusable content objects, content and learning management systems, performance support systems/devices, web applications services, and connectivity. ADL is an evolution of distributed learning (distance learning) that emphasizes collaboration on standards-based versions of reusable objects, networks, and learning management systems, yet may include some legacy methods and media. ADL is structured learning that takes place without requiring the physical presence of an instructor. Although the AF uses the term ADL, some federal agencies and DoD components may use the term distance learning. These terms refer to the same basic concept.

Advanced Distributed Learning Service (ADLS)—Advanced Distributed Learning Service is the system that delivers ADL content and tracks and reports student progress.

Advanced Training (AT)—Formal course that provides individuals who are qualified in one or more positions of their AF Specialty with additional skills and knowledge to enhance their expertise in the career field. Training is for selected career Airmen at the advanced level of the AF Specialty.

AETC (AETC) Distance Learning (DL)—Formal courses developed for export to a field location (in place of resident training) for trainees to complete without the on-site support of the formal school instructor.

AETC (AETC) Course Control Documents (CCDs)—AETC Course Control Documents prescribe the training to be provided in AETC formal courses. These include but are not limited to Course Chart, Course Training Standard, plan of instruction, and specialty training standard.

AF Career Field Manager (AFCFM)—Representative appointed by the respective HQ USAF Deputy Chief of Staff or Under Secretariat, to ensure assigned AF specialties are trained and utilized to support AF mission requirements. AF Career Functional Manager is the OPR; however, works in concert with MAJCOM Functional Managers as required.

AF Corporate Structure—Embodies the corporate review process for HQ USAF. The primary groups of the Corporate Structure are the AF Council, the AF Board, the AF Group, the fourteen Mission and Mission Support Panels, and Integrated Process Teams. This structure increases management effectiveness and improves cross-functional decision-making by providing a forum in which senior AF leadership can apply their collective judgment and experience to major programs, objectives, and issues. This process balances programs among mission areas, between force structure and support, and between readiness and modernization. Only military or Department of Defense civilian personnel assigned to the Air Staff or Office of the Secretary of the AF may serve as members of the corporate structure.

AF Learning Content Management System (AF LCMS)—AF Learning Content Management System is a content development service, which provides AF content developers a set of tools and a repository of previously developed Shareable Content Object Reference Model -based content.

Air Reserve Component (ARC)—An overarching term used when referring to both the Air National Guard and AF Reserve.

Allocation—A class seat reserved for a specific program user at their request.

Air and Space Expeditionary Forces—The Air Force presents its force capabilities to satisfy commander requirements through the Air Expeditionary Force concept. The Air Expeditionary Force concept is how the Air Force organizes, trains, equips, and sustains itself by creating a mindset and cultural state that embraces the unique characteristics of aerospace power (range, speed, flexibility, and precision) to meet the national security challenges of the 21st century.

Air Force Council—The top Air Force corporate decision-making body. Provides an institutional perspective and makes strategic recommendations to the Secretary of the Air Force and the Air Force Chief of Staff of the United States on department-wide force management and development issues for the purpose of developing the necessary competencies within our officer, enlisted, and civilian force. The Air Force vice chief of staff chairs the Air Force Council. SAF/MR, functional authorities, vice major commanders, CMSAF, and appropriate Air Reserve Component and civilian representation make up the Air Force Council and provide a review of total force management.

Air Force Education Requirements Board—Forum for providing corporate guidance and oversight for Air Force advanced academic degree and professional continuing education programs. This body approves Air Force education quota requirements above available funding level and prioritizes education quota requirements below the funding level.

Air Force specialty—A group of manpower positions requiring common qualifications. Each Air Force specialty has a title and a code.

Air Force Specialty Code—A combination of numbers and alpha characters used to identify an Air Force specialty. Officer Air Force specialty codes consist of four characters; enlisted Air Force specialty codes consist of five characters. Alpha prefixes or suffixes are used with the numerical codes when specific identification of position requirements and individual qualifications is necessary. Refer to AFI 36-2101, Classifying Military Personnel (Officer and Enlisted), Table 1.1 and Table 1.2 for explanation of codes.

Airman—According to AFDD 1-1, Leadership and Force Development, an Airman is any U.S. Air Force member or Department of the Air Force civilian.

Airman Development Plan—Web-based tool that is the primary mechanism for officers to express education, training, and experience goals to their chain of command, development team, assignment team, and career field team. Enables communication between the development team and the individual.

Air Reserve Component—The combination of the Air National Guard and the Air Force Reserve; together they are called the Air Reserve Component. Air Force Policy Directive 10-3, Air Reserve Component Forces, establishes policy to fully integrate the Air National Guard, Air Force Reserve, and RegAF into a single Total Force.

Annual Installation Training Plan—Management planning document identifying an installation's annual civilian training requirements.

Approval Authority—Senior leader responsible for contributing to and implementing policies and guidance/procedures pertaining to his/her functional area(s) (e.g., heads of functional two-letter offices).

Assignment Facilitator—The assignment facilitators are the tactical means by which the Air Force Reserve facilitates education, training and experience (assignments) opportunities for reserve officers O-5 and below. They also provide career field specific counseling and guidance. In addition, assignment facilitators are the conduit between the field, hiring authorities and the career field managers.

Assignment Team—Executes assignment and some deployment policies for a functional community and makes assignments using the Air Force Assignment System.

Buy-Up Program—A provision of the Montgomery GI Bill that allows individuals to contribute an additional $600 to their Montgomery GI Bill in order to get more money each month through their GI Bill monthly payments.

Career Field Education and Training Plan (CFETP)—A CFETP is a comprehensive core training document that identifies: life-cycle education and training requirements; training support resources; and minimum core task requirements for a specialty. The CFETP aims to give personnel a clear path and instill a sense of industry in career field training.

Career Field Manager (CFM)—The AF focal point for the designated career field within a functional community. Serves as the primary advocate for the career field, addressing issues and coordinating functional concerns across various staffs. Responsible for the career field policy and guidance. Must be appointed by the FM and hold the grade of Colonel/GS-15/PB-03 (or equivalent) for officer and DAF civilian specialties, and the grade of CMSgt for enlisted Airmen. In-depth information on Career Field Managers duties and responsibilities may be found at Chapter 1.

Career Field Team—Functionally-oriented teams that execute force development policy and programs for civilians.

Career Management Product—A customized document tailored to identify AFR officer and enlisted key, command, and joint duty assignment list positions.

Certification—A formal indication of an individual’s ability to perform a task to required standards.

Certification Official—A person whom the commander assigns to determine an individual’s ability to perform a task to required standards.

Civilian Developmental Education—Targets the development needs of a member at certain points in their career and encompasses training, educational, and experiential opportunities at the tactical, operational, and strategic levels of development.

Combat Ready Duty Position—A combat ready duty position is a position such as Red Horse, Pararescue, Security Forces, Medical Readiness, etc., that deploys on a regular basis in support of combat operations, combat ready Airman perform combat duties on a daily basis.

Continuum of Learning (CoL)—Designed to deliberately integrate developmental opportunities through a common taxonomy to produce adaptable, knowledge-enabled Airmen for today and tomorrow.

Contract Training—Type 1 training that receives the same priority funding as AF-directed training. It supports initial groups of instructors and operators the AF requires for new or modified weapon systems.

Core Task—Tasks the AF Career Field Manager identify as minimum qualification requirements for everyone within an AFSC, regardless of duty position. Core tasks may be specified for a particular skill level or in general across the AFSC. Guidance for using core tasks can be found in the applicable CFETP narrative.

Course Objective List (COL)—A publication derived from initial and advanced skills Course Training Standard, identifying the tasks and knowledge requirements, and respective standards provided to achieve a 3- or 7-skill level in this career field. Supervisors use the continuum of learning to assist in conducting graduate evaluations.

Course Training Standard (CTS)—Training standard that identifies the training members receive in a specific course.

Critical Resource—A host-unit provided item taken from its operational role to support field training. Generally refers to an airframe, engine or other equipment item.

Critical Task—A task in not accomplished to the specified standard results in a serious adverse effect upon mission accomplishment, survivability or safety.

Certification—The recognition or credential given to an individual who have met predetermined qualifications set by an agency of government, industry, or a profession.

Chief Leadership Course—The Chief Leadership Course (CLC) is a course designed to provide CMSgts the education to bridge operational-to-strategic perspectives of the Air Force. As a result of this Executive Level Experience (ELE), strategic-level leaders will be equipped to inspire, effectively lead, manage and mentor our present day and tomorrow's Airmen. The CLC is the capstone and pinnacle level of Enlisted Professional Military Education.

Civilian—An individual employed in or under the Department of the AF.

Civilian Automated Training Input Program—An automated program used by installations, AFPC/DP2LCF, Career Field Managers, and AF/A1DI to input civilian training requirements for AF-wide consolidation.

Civilian Developmental Education Program—AF civilian competitive leadership development program for sustaining the capability of senior level civilians while preparing high- potential civilians for increasingly responsible management and leadership positions. The Civilian Developmental Education portfolio includes Professional Military Education, other long-term academic and experiential programs, and GS-15 executive development programs.

Civilian Strategic Leader Program—Ensures a highly-qualified leadership pipeline is available to meet future mission requirements. Through experiential opportunities, civilian strategic leadership program enhances the knowledge, skills and abilities possessed by its GS-14/15 participants by providing assignments with roles and responsibilities that have Air Force enterprise and/or Department of Defense-wide impact. A fundamental aspect of the civilian strategic leadership program is ensuring there is a right mix of enterprise positions at varying strategic levels within the AF enterprise. While not a promotion program, civilian strategic leadership program participants are reassigned to experiential positions typically for 3 years. While the majority of civilian strategic leadership program positions are locally funded, some positions across the Air Staff, Office of the Secretary of Defense, and joint community are funded by the Central Salary Account.

Commercial Off-The-Shelf—A commercially available training, education, and professional development event or planned series of the same event, activity, service or material requiring no modification prior to use. Such training may occur on or off the installation and may include non-federal civilians.

Competencies—Observable, measurable pattern of knowledge, skills, abilities, behaviors, and other characteristics needed to perform institutional or occupational functions successfully.

Concept of Operation—Describes key Air Force mission areas and/or functional areas for enabling desired joint warfighting effects in accordance with national, joint, and service guidance. The Air Force concept of operation articulates the capabilities needed to achieve those effects and inform Headquarters Air Force and major command senior leadership on the Air Force vision for capabilities development.

Continued Service Agreement—Document signed by the civilian employee agreeing to remain with the AF for a specific length of time following completion of training.

Continuum of Learning—Career-long process of individual development where challenging experiences are combined with education and training through a common taxonomy to produce Airmen who possess the tactical expertise, operational competence, strategic vision, and joint proficiency to lead and execute the full spectrum of Air Force and joint missions.

Cross-Functional Advisory Panels—A forum (e.g., Nuclear Enterprise Senior Steering Group) convened to develop and coordinate strategic-level oversight to key stakeholders and functional communities.

Cross—Functional Authority—Manage the needs of their occupational capability by identifying cross-functional billets, associating proficiency levels, and development (training and/or experience) necessary to successfully conduct their mission and working with functional leads to ensure career long, deliberate development occurs. Currently, five cross functional authorities have been identified: cyberspace, nuclear, space, test and evaluation, and acquisitions.

Cross-Functional Capabilities—Collection of skills including knowledge and task proficiency needed to produce a distinctive operational capability, which is not entirely developed within the AF institutional and occupational development plan. This capability is source by more than one, but not all, Air Force specialty codes to augment institutional and occupational functions. This functional mission set relies on a deliberate human capital strategy of skill development built over time through education, training, and experience.

Developmental Education—An array of educational opportunities including: professional military education, advanced academic degrees, and professional continuing education.

Developmental Education Designation Board—An annual board chaired by the AF/A1 to determine in-resident intermediate developmental education and senior developmental education assignments for RegAF officers below the grade of O-6 and selected GS-15s (or equivalent).

Development Team—Provides oversight of officer and civilian development to meet both functional and AF corporate leadership requirements. Development teams are the conduit between force development systems, frameworks, and policy and translate these into career vectors for individuals.

Development Team Tool—A database tool used by development teams to score individual records, determine candidates for developmental education and command, and assign developmental vectors.

Developmental Vector—A recommendation from a development team to an individual and his or her assignment team of an experience to be gained for the development of the individual (e.g., joint, headquarters Air Force, command, etc.).

Discharge—The complete termination of any or all enlistments or appointments and any or all other military status resulting in complete severance from all military status.

Distance Learning—Structured learning that does not require the physical presence of the instructor.

Distributed Learning—Structured learning mediated with technology that does not require the physical presence of the instructor. Distributed learning models can be used in combination with other forms of instruction or it can be used to create wholly virtual classrooms.

Education—Process of imparting general bodies of knowledge and habits of mind applicable to a broad spectrum of endeavors to intellectually prepare individuals to deal with dynamic environments and solve ill-defined problems by using critical thought and reasoned judgment. Education programs prepare Airmen to anticipate and successfully meet challenges across the range of military operations and build a professional corps. Further, they positively impact both recruitment and retention efforts. Education can be further defined as developing a civilian's general knowledge, capabilities and character through exposure to and learning of theories, concepts, and information. Education is traditionally delivered by an accredited institution and must relate to a current or future mission-related assignment.

Education and Training Course Announcement—Contains specific MAJCOM procedures, fund cite instructions, reporting instructions, and listings for those formal courses conducted or managed by the MAJCOMs or field operating agencies (FOAs). The Education and Training Course Announcement contains courses conducted or administered by the AF and reserve forces and serves as a reference for the AF, DoD, other military services, government agencies, and security assistance programs.

Electronic Career Development Course—Enhances the availability of Career Development Courses and promotes utilization of advanced distance learning concepts resulting in an educationally sound product for all Airmen within their AF specialties.

Employee Development Specialist—Primary civilian training, education, and professional development manager for the installation responsible for program element code 88751F funds.

Enlisted Development Team—Provides key input on functional progression and succession planning. They execute enlisted vectoring and identify key leadership and developmental positions in their functional communities. The CFM and EDT chair collaborates with AF/A1 and the Air Force Personnel Center on enlisted force development and management programs.

Enlisted Force Development Panel—The Enlisted Force Development Panel is charged to review, evaluate, and make recommendations to senior Air Force leaders regarding concerns, programs and initiatives relating to the education, training and experiences impacting enlisted Airman Development.

Enlisted Quarterly Assignment Listing—Provides Airmen a listing of assignment requirements available for upcoming assignment cycles and allows Airmen the opportunity to align personal preferences to Air Force needs. The listing identifies available assignments by Air Force specialty code, grade and location. The list can be viewed on the Air Force Personnel Center Worldwide Web page at http://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil. Note: Must be RegAF to access this online.

Enlisted Quarterly Assignment Listing—Plus—Supplements the enlisted quarterly assignment listing and is used to advertise requirements for special duty assignments, joint/departmental assignments, short-notice overseas assignments, and all CMSgt assignments. Enlisted quarterly assignment listing-Plus shows upcoming requirements, any special qualifications an Airman needs to be eligible for selection, the available locations, reporting instructions, and points of contact for additional information. The list can be viewed on the Air Force Personnel Center Worldwide Web page at http://www.afpc.randolph.af.mil. Note: Must be RegAF to access this online.

Exportable Course—Instructional packages that personnel design for use in the field. The course may include printed, computer-based, or other audiovisual materials.

Exportable Training—Additional training via computer assisted, paper text, interactive video, or other necessary means to supplement training.

External Evaluation—Acquisition and analysis of data from outside the training environment to evaluate the training product in the operating environment.

Extension Course Program—Provides career-broadening courses throughout the Department of Defense to include civil service employees in all federal agencies.

Expeditionary Readiness—Knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs) needed for a deployment-ready Airman to survive, operate, and succeed in a deployed environment, while reinforcing a strong warrior ethos.

Expeditionary Readiness Training—Training that provides an Airman the KSAs to survive, operate and succeed across the range of military operations in support of Combatant Commanders' requirements, while reinforcing a strong warrior ethos. These KSAs are not routinely acquired during initial occupational, mission oriented or Ancillary Training venues.

Experience—Active participation/involvement in positions, events, or activities leading to the accumulation of knowledge or skill that can be utilized to meet mission requirements.

Extended Active Duty—An active duty status other than active duty for training or temporary tours of active duty. Personnel on extended active duty are assigned to an active duty unit, and accountability is against active force strength.

Field Training—Technical, operator, and other training either a training detachment or field training team conducts at operational locations on specific systems and associated direct-support equipment for maintenance and aircrew personnel.

First—Term Airmen—Individuals who are on their: (1) first enlistment (including Airmen who have extended their enlistments for 23 months or less), or; (2) first extended active duty tour, or; (3) first enlistment with prior active service of less than 24 months.—Force Development— A deliberate process of preparing Airmen through the continuum of learning with the required competencies to meet the challenges of current and future operating environments. Institutional and joint development generally results in leadership, management, and warrior ethos proficiency. Occupational development generally results in technical skill proficiency.

Force Development Construct—A framework that links Airmen development needs with defined Foundational Competencies. These competencies (Organizational, People/Team, and Personal) are delivered through the continuum of learning.

Formal Training Plan—Document that contains planned training and development activities, which may be individually tailored, if necessary, for each civilian participating in a formal training program. Formal training programs are outlined in an official document, regulation, or agreement and designed to cover more than one civilian (e.g., accelerated training agreements approved by the Office of Personnel Management or the Air Force, Air Force and major command intern programs, etc.)

Foundational Competencies—Common taxonomy used to implement the continuum of learning. These leadership competencies are expected of all Airmen, throughout their careers, and will be the competencies needed to operate successfully in the constantly changing environment in which they function. The three categories of these competencies are mapped to the Air Force leadership levels.

Functional/Occupational Training—Training required by the specific career field, functional community, or occupational series to perform actual tasks required by the position to accomplish the AF mission.

Functional Advisory Council—A forum of functional representatives that meets to discuss how to best prepare senior leaders with a comprehensive understanding of functional, cross-functional, and institutional personnel requirements as they pertain to a particular career field.

Functional Area Manager—The individual accountable for the management and oversight of all personnel and equipment within a specific functional area to support operational planning and execution. Responsibilities may include developing and reviewing policy; developing, managing, and maintaining unit type codes; developing criteria for and monitoring readiness reporting; force posturing; and analysis. At each level of responsibility (Headquarters Air Force, major commands, air component, forward operating agency, direct reporting unit, and installation), the functional area manager should be the most knowledgeable and experienced person within the functional area and have the widest range of visibility over functional area readiness and capability issues.

Functional Authority—Senior leaders, to include Assistant Secretaries (SES), Deputy Chiefs of Staff (three-star), and other selected HAF two-letter GO/SES-level leaders that provide corporate perspective of institutional requirements and force management and development. The functional authority serves as a final authority to ensure all policies, established in accordance with this document, are implemented within their functional community. Functional authorities are supported by functional managers who are supported by career field managers.

Functional Management Structure—The functional authority, functional manager, development team, enlisted development team, career field manager, functional assignment team/career field team and other career field stakeholders at the enterprise level who provide a corporate perspective of institutional requirements, career field-specific policy and guidance, and day-to-day management of their specific career field(s) in order to ensure Airmen within their functional community are equipped, developed, and sustained to provide AF capabilities.

Functional Manager—Senior leaders, designated by the appropriate functional authority who provide day-to-day management responsibility over specific functional communities at the MAJCOM, FOA, DRU, or ARC level. While they should maintain an institutional focus in regards to resource development and distribution, Functional Managers are responsible for ensuring their specialties are equipped, developed, and sustained to meet the functional community's mission as well as encourage force development opportunities in order to meet future needs of the total AF mission.

Government—The Government of the United States and the government of the District of Columbia.

Government Purchase Card—A method of payment for goods and services to include authorized training and education.

High Potential Officer (Regular Air Force)—Demonstrate depth and expertise through exceptional performance in functional skills, and excel in the areas of managing resources, leading people, improving the unit and executing the mission. High-potential officer indicators include: Officer performance report stratification, awards/recognition, special selection and assignments.

High Potential Officer (Air Force Reserve)—Officers on their career field Key Personnel Listing (determined by the development team), in resident developmental education students, Reserve Command Selection Board list, Reserve Brigadier General Qualification Board list, or sitting commanders in O-6 level commander positions are considered high-potential officers. Demonstrate depth and expertise through exceptional performance in the functional skills, breadth of experience through assignment and educational opportunities, and those who excel in the areas personal, people/teams, and organizational competencies. Reserve component indicators include: officer performance report stratification, awards/recognition, and assignments to key/command/joint positions, Reserve Command Screening Board selection, and the four pillars of the Air Force Reserve.

Home Station Training (HST)—Training required to perform in the current duty position to include duty position tasks, core tasks, Resource Augmentation Duty program tasks, contingency tasks, and additional duty tasks.

Individual Development Plan—Web-based tool that is the primary mechanism for civilians to express education, training, and experience goals. Enables communication between the development team and the individual.

Individual Reservist—A member of the Individual Reserve Program in one of four categories: the individual mobilization augmentee; the participating Individual Ready reserve; non-participating Individual Ready Reserve and the Standby Reserve.

Intermediate Developmental Education—Developmental education directed at the operational level of development, usually received as a field grade officer and GS 12-13 (or equivalent).

Joint Duty Assignment List—This is a list of secretary of Defense-approved positions where an officer gains significant experience in joint matters. As mandated in the Goldwater Nichols Act of 1986 and the National Defense authorization Act (2007), the Reserve Components must gain expertise in joint matters to participate in Joint, Interagency, Coalition and Multi-National environment.

Judge Advocate—Licensed attorneys who deliver professional, candid, independent counsel and provide full spectrum legal capabilities to assist the warfighter.

Individual Development Plan—A document used to record short- and long-range career goals, the specific competencies, knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to meet current objectives, and training, education, and other professional development strategies used to develop the desired competencies. In conjunction with a performance assistance plan, the individual development plan assists in making civilian performance more effective in present and future positions and is used for civilians below the executive level.

Initial Evaluation—An evaluation to review an individual's training qualifications. Supervisors conduct an initial training evaluation to determine if the individual requires additional training to meet duty position requirements.

Initial Skills Training—A formal school course that results in an AFSC 3-skill level award for enlisted or mandatory training for upgrade to qualified officers.

Installation Training Guide—Specific guidance on local training program operations that are not addressed in this publication and prepared by the employee development specialist for serviced organizations.

Interagency Training—Training provided by one agency for other agencies or shared by two or more agencies.

Issue Panels—Established to respond to specific institutional force management or development issues which have a significant AF impact. When created, the charter must include specific criteria defining when the panel will stand down.

Key Positions—Key positions within a career field are those leadership/pinnacle positions which are highlighted as major, important, essential, pivotal, and limited. They provide valuable experience in the Air Force Reserve and will present incumbents with vital Air Force Reserve development for future key position placement. These positions are at the strategic level, often requiring a component perspective.

Key Career Position—Target competencies at the strategic leadership level. Key career positions are centrally managed and in major occupational series. They have a tour length of 3-5 years, provide critical experience in developing career field leadership, and are to be vectored by the Career Field Development Team process.

Key Personnel List—Development Teams establish a key personnel list through the scoring process during career field development teams. The Key Personnel Listing is used to fill key/command/joint officer and key/strategic enlisted positions and referenced when making other developmental decisions.

Keystone Course—The Keystone Course is designed to educate Command Senior Enlisted Leaders (CSELs) currently serving in or slated to serve in a general or flag officer level joint headquarters or Service headquarters that could be assigned as a joint task force. CSELs will have an opportunity to visit and receive briefings at the National Defense University, the DJS J7 Joint Coalition Warfighting Joint Operation Module (JOM) in Suffolk, VA, and several Combatant Commands and Joint Task Forces.

Knowledge Training—Training used to provide a base of knowledge for task performance. It may also be used in lieu of task performance when the training capability does not exist. Learning gained through knowledge rather than hands-on experience.

Learning—Cognitive, affective, and/or physical process where a person assimilates information, and temporarily or permanently acquires or improves skills, knowledge, behaviors, and attitudes.

Licensing—The process by which a government agency (federal, state, or local) grants permission to an individual to engage in a given occupation upon finding the applicant has attained the minimum degree of competency required to engage in the occupation.

Long-Term Full-Time Training—Off-the-job training of more than 120 consecutive duty days.

Major Command—A major subdivision of the Air Force that is assigned a major part of the Air Force mission. Major commands report directly to Headquarters Air Force.

Major Command Functional Manager—The Air Force Reserve focal point for enlisted members in a designated career field. They serve as the primary advocate for the career field, they monitor health and manning, and address issues and coordinate functional concerns across various staffs.

Mandatory Training—Required for all civilians based on statute, regulations or prescribed policy.

Management Training Committee—Committee of top functional managers responsible for the management of training and development resources on an installation.

Mentor—Wise, trusted, and experienced individual who shares knowledge, experience, and advice with a less experienced person.

Master Task List (MTL)—A comprehensive list (100%) of all tasks performed within a work center and consisting of the current CFETP or AF Job Qualification Standard and locally developed AF Forms 797 (as a minimum). Should include tasks required for deployment and/or unit type code requirements.

Master Training Plan (MTP)—Employs a strategy for ensuring the completion of all work center job requirements by using a master task listing and provides milestones for task, Career Development Course completion, and prioritizes deployment/unit type code, home station training tasks, upgrade, and qualification tasks.

Military Life Cycle (MLC)—Key points in time or, "touch points," throughout a service member's career to align their military career with their civilian career goals. MLC enables transition to become a well-planned, organized progression of skill building and career readiness preparation spread over the length of a military career.

Nuclear Deterrence Operations—The service core function where the Air Force operates, maintains, and secures nuclear forces to achieve an assured capability to deter an adversary from taking action against vital United States interests. Specifically, the three capabilities resident in nuclear deterrence operations are (1) Assure, Dissuade, Deter, (2) Nuclear Surety, and (3) Nuclear Strike.

Nuclear Enterprise—The people, organizations, processes, procedures, and systems used to conduct, execute, and support Nuclear Deterrence Operations and forces. It includes the infrastructure and life-cycle activities for nuclear weapons, delivery platforms, and supporting systems; intellectual and technical competencies; and cultural mindset

No-Fail Position—A position with responsibilities vital to the success of the mission. Failure to have a qualified individual in this position could have severe consequences.

Occupational Analysis (OA)—Collecting and analyzing factual data on the tasks and/or knowledge performed by AF career fields. This data is used to provide personnel and training decision-makers with factual and objective job information which enables them to justify and/or change personnel utilization policies and programs, refine and maintain occupational structures, and establish, validate, and adjust testing and training programs.

Occupational Competencies—A set of competencies required of all Airmen within a specific workforce category (a group of functions requiring similar work, i.e., Engineering). They describe technical/functional skills, knowledge, abilities, behaviors, and other characteristics needed to perform that function's mission successfully.

Occupational Group—A major category of white collar occupations, embracing a group of associated or related occupations (e.g., the accounting and budget group is GS-0500).

Occupational Series—A subdivision of an occupational group consisting of positions with similar specialized line of work and qualification requirements. The series are designated by a title and number such as the accounting series, 0510.

Online Academic Skills Course (OASC)—Online, self-paced, academic skills training course offered by the Department of Defense (DoD) Voluntary Education (VolEd) Program, through the Defense Activity for Non-Traditional Education Support (DANTES) that provides fundamental math and verbal skills improvement.

On-the-Job Training (OJT)—Hands-on, "over-the-shoulder" training or evaluation conducted to certify personnel in both upgrade (skill level award) and job qualification (position certification training).

Out-of-Cycle Training Request—A new requirement or a change to a Funded Mission Readiness Training Program Guidance Letter.

Planning, Programming, Budgeting and Execution (PPBE)—Secretary of Defense's resource management system that is the primary means to control allocation of resources, identify mission needs (planning), match them with resource requirements (programming), and translate them into budget proposals (budgeting).

Potential Reassignment List—List of Reserve members who are approaching six months prior to end of their current assignment and may potentially be reassigned to another position.

Professional Continuing Education—Any course that is less than 20 weeks in duration and satisfies mission accomplishment, sustainment, or enhancement as required by law, Air Force governance, specific memorandum of agreement, or position requirement. Professional continuing education should not be confused with initial skills and subsequent advanced training courses that are required to advance in the Air Force Specialty Code skill level.

Professional Development—Engagement in a set of learning experiences designed to achieve specific goals and long-term objectives. Learning experiences often occur in the workplace, and include coaching, mentoring, job rotation, developmental assignments, on-the-job training, and self-study courses.

Professional Military Education—Critical subset of developmental education that: 1) provides the nation with personnel skilled in the employment of air, space, and cyberspace power in the conduct of war, small scale contingencies, deterrence, peacetime operations, and national security; 2) provides Air Force personnel with the skills and knowledge to make sound decisions in progressively more demanding leadership positions within the national security environment; and 3) develops strategic thinkers, planners, and war fighters. In addition, professional military education programs strengthen the ability and skills of Air Force personnel to lead, manage, and supervise.

Program Element Code 88751F—Operations and Maintenance (O&M) Program which funds training, education, and professional development of O&M funded civilians.

Program Requirements Document (PRD)—Serves as a planning and programming document supporting Program Objective Memorandum/APOM submissions, while program guidance letters serve as the training execution tasking. Revised or planning program requirements documents may be used to reflect vectors or re-vectors by the AF Corporate Structure.

Proficiency Training—Additional training, either in-residence or exportable advanced training courses, or on-the-job training, provided to personnel to increase their skills and knowledge beyond the minimum required for upgrade.

Program Guidance Letter—Establishes training requirements for AETC execution. Program Guidance Letters are the official tasking document enabling AETC planners and resource programmers to acquire the necessary resources for accomplishment of the tasking. The Program Guidance Letters align the AF requirements with the Planning, Programming, Budgeting and Execution process.

Program Objective Memorandum (POM)—Office of the Secretary of Defense directed, service developed document identifying money, people and equipment requirements and allocations over a specified period of time (example FY13-17). Program Objective Memorandum funding baselines are used to develop budget level detail for distribution of resources during budget execution years. The Program Objective Memorandum is developed by individual services to set objectives for their forces, weapon systems and logistical support within the fiscal limits assigned to them by the Secretary of Defense.

Program Requirements Document (PRD)—Reflects the "unconstrained" production requirements (Formerly the Draft Program Guidance Letter). This name change creates a clearer distinction between documents containing "unconstrained"/total requirements verses documents containing requirements that have survived a corporate funding process. The program

Progression Planning—Career field planning designed to provide the proper education, training and experience necessary to develop the majority of the career field.

Qualification Training (QT)—Performance training designed to qualify an Airman who has transferred from one base or position to another specific position. The supervisor performs an initial evaluation that includes a review of all previously certified tasks checked against the newly assigned position's required tasks. Any tasks not previously completed is now required and this identifies that the member requires qualification training for the newly assigned duty position.

Qualification Training Package (QTP)—An instructional package designed for use at the unit to qualify, or aid qualification, in a duty position or program, or on a piece of equipment. It may be printed, computer-based, or in other audiovisual media.

Quality Assurance Concept (QA)—The Quality Assurance staff evaluates the quality of maintenance accomplished in the maintenance organization and performs necessary functions to manage the organization's Maintenance Standardization and Evaluation Program, which provides an objective sampling of both the quality of equipment and the proficiency of maintenance personnel.

RECLAMA—The process to "request to duly constituted authority to reconsider its decision or its proposed action" (JP 1-02).

Reserve Developmental Education Designation Board—The Reserve Developmental Education Designation Board is an annual board that convenes at Air Reserve Personnel Center to select Citizen Airmen to attend in-residence developmental education schools.

Reserve-development plan—This is the ultimate tool for Citizen Airmen (Officer/Enlisted) to influence the development of their own careers. They place desires, intent, goals and abilities for themselves and leadership to help determine the most appropriate career opportunities. The entire force development process hinges on this extremely important document to match against the needs of the Air Force.

Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel—The Reserve Enlisted Force Development Panel provides general enlisted force development program oversight and guidance.

Reserve Functional Manager—The Reserve Functional Manager provides day-to-day strategic-level direction and authority over specific functional communities' requirements and overall management of a functional career field. Reserve functional managers are responsible for resource development and distribution and ensuring their specialties are equipped, developed, and sustained to provide Air Force capabilities.

Reserve School Selection Board (RSSB)—This semi-annual board that convenes at the Air Reserve School Selection Board to competitively select Citizen Airmen to attend Tactical, Operational and Strategic level courses. These are a compilation of blended offerings and short courses.

Resource Constraints—Resource deficiencies, such as money, facilities, time, manpower, and equipment that preclude desired training from being delivered.

Selective Reenlistment Program—A program designed to permit the reenlistment of qualified and needed Airmen, who have shown they have the capability and dedication to adapt to future mission requirements.

Senior Developmental Education—Developmental education directed at the strategic level of development, usually for O-5/O-6/GS-15 (and equivalent).

Senior Rater—Senior raters must be at least an O-5/O-6/GS-15 (equivalent) or higher, serving as a wing commander or equivalent position and designated by the Management Level with a Senior Rater Identification.

SkillBridge Program—DoD program directed by law to provide eligible members of the armed forces with job training and employment skills training, including apprenticeships and internships to help prepare such members for employment in the civilian sector.

Skill Level—An enlisted Air Force specialty code denoting an individual's highest level of qualification. Enlisted personnel must complete all mandatory training requirements as outlined in AFI 36-2201, the specialty description in the Air Force Enlisted Classification Directory on the Air Force Personnel Center web site, and the applicable Career Field Education and Training Plan for award of the 3-, 5-, 7-, and 9-skill levels.

Space Professional Functional Authority—The Secretary of the Air Force-appointed functional authority for the Space Professional community.

Specialty Training—The total training process used to qualify Airmen in their assigned specialty.

Specialty Training Requirements Team—Air Force career field managers use this forum and quality control tool to determine and manage career field education and training requirements.

Specialty Training Standard (STS)—An AF publication that describes an AF Specialty in terms of tasks and knowledge an Airman in that specialty may be expected to perform or to know on the job. Also identifies the training provided to achieve a 3-, 5-, or 7-skill level within an enlisted AF Specialty. It further serves as a contract between AETC and the functional user to show which of the overall training requirements for an AFSC are taught in formal schools and correspondence courses.

Standard—An exact value, a physical entity, or an abstract concept, the appropriate authority, custom, or common consent sets up and defines to serve as a reference, model, or rule in measuring quantities or qualities, developing practices or procedures, or evaluating results. A fixed quantity or quality.

Student Assignment Facilitation Panel—Assists students leaving in-residence developmental education with outplacement to help ensure the Air Force Reserve's return on investment.

Succession Planning—Identifying long-range needs and cultivating a supply of talent to meet those needs. It involves a process for identifying and developing organizational personnel with the potential to fill key leadership positions. Succession planning increases the availability of experienced and capable personnel that are prepared to assume these roles as they become available.

Supplemental Training—Training toward a portion of an AF Specialty without change by AFSC. Formal training on new equipment, methods and technology that are not suited for on-the-job training.

Task Certifier—See Certification Official.

Task Qualification Training (TQT)—Training conducted after Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, and High-Yield Explosive defense classroom training in which individuals perform wartime mission essential tasks in a simulated wartime environment while wearing full ground crew individual protective equipment or aircrew individual protective equipment. Headquarters AF, MAJCOM and local Functional Area Managers identify wartime mission essential tasks. See AFI 10-2501, Emergency Management Program additional information/ requirements.

Third Party Certification—An evaluation of completed training conducted by the task certifier and is only required when directed by the AF Career Field Manager.

Top-Up Program—Formally known as the Tuition Assistance Top-Up Program, the Top-Up Program allows GI Bill participants to use the GI Bill to supplement the tuition and fees not covered by tuition assistance. The amount of the benefit can be equal to the difference between the total cost of a college course and the amount of Tuition assistance that is paid by the military for the course.

Total Force—Organizations, units, and individuals that comprise the Air Forces' resources for meeting its mission. This includes RegAF, Air National Guard, and Air Force Reserve military personnel, and civilian personnel.

Total Force Assessment—Tests whether the force requirements derived from its manpower requirements determination process were sufficient to support the spectrum of military operations envisioned in the defense strategy. This includes simultaneously fighting two major theater wars to conducting multiple contingency operations in peacetime.

Trainer—A trained and qualified person who teaches personnel to perform specific tasks through on-the-job training methods. Also, equipment that the trainer uses to teach personnel specified tasks.

Training—A set of events or activities presented in a structured or planned manner through one or more media for the attainment and retention of skills, knowledge, and attitudes required to meet job performance requirements. This involves the coaching and mentoring of Airmen, resulting in proficiency development. Note: Functional authorities in conjunction with Air Education and Training Command and 2nd Air Force shall develop frameworks for technical skill development. These frameworks shall be consistent with overarching Air Force guidance. Additionally, training can be defined as the process of providing for and making available to an civilian, and placing or enrolling the civilian in, a planned, prepared and coordinated program, course, curriculum, subject, system, or routine of instruction or education, in scientific, professional, technical, mechanical, trade, clerical, fiscal, administrative, or other fields which will improve individual and organizational performance and assist in achieving the AF mission and performance goals.

Training Agreement—A written contract between a civilian and the AF. The contract outlines intensive training to satisfy all or part of the experience required by qualification standards, without regard to time-in-grade requirements.

Training Capability—The ability of a unit or base to provide training. Authorities consider the availability of equipment, qualified trainers, and study reference materials, and so on in determining a unit's training capability.

Training Detachment—An AETC detachment that provides technical training, at an operational location, on specific systems, and their aerospace ground equipment. A training detachment aims to: qualify personnel on new equipment or in new techniques and procedures, maintain proficiency and to increase skill and knowledge, acquaint personnel with specific systems, and keep personnel aware of changing concepts and requirements.

Training Equipment—The generic term for items trainers use to train aircrew, missile, maintenance, support, or operator personnel. Trainers teach with these items by picturing, simulating or otherwise demonstrating the characteristics of a system, facility or piece of equipment.

Training Requester Quota Identifier—The training requester quota identifier is a four-character communication code within Oracle Training Administration used to convey annual or supplemental training requirements, allocations, allocation confirmations, and student tracking information between a user of training and the provider (owner) of training. Training requester quota identifiers are assigned to MAJCOMs, FOA, and DRUs responsible for training accountability of personnel. Only one training requester quota identifier is assigned to a functional entity for Mission Readiness Training Program.

Training Session—Training conducted based on technical data for a task that existing courses cannot support.

Training Office—The base education and training office in which the employee development specialist function is located in under the base force development flight.

Tuition—The stated cost per academic unit of instruction as specified in the course catalog at an accredited institution.

Tuition Assistance—Financial assistance for tuition, laboratory and other instructional fees for academic mission-related courses at accredited post-secondary academic institutions.

Unit Manpower Document—The unit manpower document is the primary document that reflects the manpower required to accomplish the unit's mission. It is a computer product that lists unit manpower requirements, both funded and unfunded, and is used to help manage manpower resources. The unit manpower document contains many data elements identifying the unique attributes of a position including position number, Air Force specialty code, functional account code, work center, grade, number of authorizations, and personnel accounting symbol data.

Utilization and Training Workshop—Career field managers use the utilization and training workshop process to develop and review training programs within an Air Force specialty or civilian occupational series. The goal of the utilization and training workshop process is to develop the architecture for effective life-cycle training to be provided at appropriate points throughout a career path and to ensure that personnel within the specialty or series are properly employed.

Utilization Field—A group of Air Force officer specialties, related by required skills and knowledge. A utilization field can consist of only one specialty if the skills and knowledge required are unique and don't relate to other officer specialties.

Unit Training Assembly—A planned period of training, duty, instruction, or test alert completed by a Reserve unit.

Upgrade Training—Mandatory training that leads to attainment of higher level of proficiency.

Vector—The development team/enlisted development team collective recommendation for an assignment level (e.g., Joint Staff, Headquarters Air Force, major command, installation-level, etc.), training, or education opportunity (e.g., resident developmental education, advanced functional training), or position type (e.g., flight commander, division chief, instructor, special duty, etc.) a member should be considered for in his or her next or subsequent assignments.

Wartime Course—Comprised of those tasks that must be taught when courses are accelerated in a wartime environment. Wartime tasks are the tasks to be taught in the 3-level course when the wartime courses have been activated. In response to a wartime scenario, these tasks are taught in the 3-level course in a streamlined training environment. These tasks are only for those career fields that still need them applied to their schoolhouse tasks.

FUNCTIONAL ADVISORY COUNCIL CHARTER GUIDELINES

BACKGROUND:
The (insert Air Force specialty code and/or functional community name) Functional Advisory Council is established in accordance with Chapter 1 of this publication.
MISSION
The (insert Air Force specialty code and/or functional community) Functional Advisory Council prepares senior leaders with a comprehensive understanding of functional, cross-functional and institutional personnel requirements as they pertain to the (list the career fields).
AUTHORITY
This charter remains in effect until (insert date or appropriate language i.e., terminated or superseded per direction of the convening authorities).
OBJECTIVE
The objective of this Functional Advisory Council is to [identify your functional community objectives for the Functional Advisory Council].
MEMBERSHIP
The functional manager determines the Functional Advisory Council membership as outlined in Chapter 1.
COUNCIL
The Council is defined as the Functional Advisory Council chair, vice-chair, voting members, and ex-officio members. The Functional Advisory Council is responsible for approving policy and overseeing implementation of Air Force programs and actions designed to benefit the [insert Air Force specialty code/community] workforce. The Functional Advisory Council chair may appoint executive panels to assist the Functional Advisory Council to design, implement, and maintain programs. The Functional Advisory Council chair may also delegate other advocacy responsibilities or authorities as required to ensure the health of career field specialties. Policy areas within the purview and influence of the Functional Advisory Council include, but are not limited to:
1. Workforce Management
2. Education & Training
3. Recognition Programs
4. Development
5. Workforce Analysis & Shaping Initiatives
6. Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics Advocacy

7. (DELETED)
ADMINISTRATION
Meetings
This Functional Advisory Council will meet (identify frequency of the Functional Advisory Council, at a minimum it should be held annually).
(Insert name of point of contact) shall serve as the Point of Contact for each meeting.
(Insert office/function) will perform recorder duties and will track action items, produce minutes documenting overarching decisions, policy and guidance.
CHARTER REVIEW (TERMS OF AGREEMENT)

The charter shall be reviewed by the Functional Advisory Council members annually, coordinated through the functional manager and will be maintained by (insert the point of contact i.e., the Career Field Manager). Charter revision shall take effect upon the signature of the functional authority.

REGULAR AIR FORCE (REGAF) DEVELOPMENT TEAM CHARTER GUIDELINES

The (insert Air Force specialty code and/or functional community name) development team is established in accordance with AFI 36-XX7 - Total Force Development.

MISSION
The (insert Air Force specialty code and/or functional community name) development team provides oversight of officer, enlisted and civilian personnel development to meet both functional and Air Force corporate leadership requirements (insert additional language as needed to meet functional community needs).

AUTHORITY
This charter remains in effect until (insert date or appropriate language i.e., terminated or superseded per direction of the convening authorities).

OBJECTIVE
The objective of this development team is to (insert the objective of the development team e.g., execute force development policy, provide feedback on career field policy issues, provide developmental education nominations and develop command/Civilian Strategic Leader Program candidate slates).

MEMBERSHIP
Insert development team membership (based on guidance as outlined in Chapter 1 of this instruction)

ADMINISTRATION

AIR FORCE RESERVE DEVELOPMENT TEAM CHARTER GUIDELINES

Mission: Vectors based on projected requirements by level and position type. A vector is the development team's collective recommendation for an assignment level (e.g., Joint Staff, Air Staff, major command, base-level, etc.), training or education opportunity (e.g., in-residence developmental education, Reserve School Selection Board, advanced functional training, etc.) or position type (e.g., flight commander, division chief, special duty, etc.) for which a member should be considered in subsequent assignments.

Authority: As directed by AFI 36-XX7. This charter remains in effect until terminated or superseded per direction of convening authorities.

Purpose: This charter gives authorization to the development team to provide necessary tools and formal guidance to Citizen Airmen to maximize capabilities that ensure the Air Force Reserve provides air, space, and cyberspace power in support of our nation's security. Implementation is through a series of deliberate and rewarding challenges in education, training, and experiences.

Roles and Responsibilities: Areas within the purview and influence of the development team include but are not limited to:

Identify the education, training, and experiences (both self-development and corporately resourced) appropriate for Citizen Airmen within each functional community based on current and future requirements.

Development Teams make vectors based on projected requirements by level and position type, and use career path diagrams to inform their vector recommendations.

Will consider and address cross-functional utilization requirements.

Terms of Agreement: This charter is subject to annual review, renewal or amendment at such time that is deemed necessary. If a requirement changes, any signatory to this agreement may initiate changes.

AIR FORCE EDUCATION REQUIREMENTS BOARD

A21.1. As a mechanism of force development policy, the Air Force Education Requirements Board is conducted annually to prioritize and fund graduate education (formerly referred to as Advanced Academic Degrees) and experiential programs as well as professional continuing education courses in accordance with Department of Defense Instruction 1322.10 and requirements as defined by extant unit manpower documents and/or secretary of the Air Force and Air Force Chief of Staff initiatives. As such, the Air Force Education Requirements Board operates with a limited budget to adjudicate competing interests within the larger strategy of the force development enterprise to help achieve Air Force objectives. The board's structure and processes are outlined in the Air Force Education Requirements Board Concept of Operations, currently maintained by AF/A1DL. The board is divided into two bodies: 1) a working group, composed of career field managers and professional continuing education course owners and 2) the executive session (ES), made up of functional managers and chaired by AF/A1D, who reviews and approves education priorities and resources for the requisite fiscal year.

A21.2. The Air Force Education Requirements Board supports any number of a wide array of graduate education requirements that provide for the particular and broad development strategy of the force outlined by AF/A1D and the career field managers. The Air Force Education Requirements Board is not, however, designed nor resourced to support the full contingent of any career field manager's and organization's developmental needs. As such, requests for graduate education quotas requires career field managers and institutions to present 1) a legible review of present and projected inventory possessing the minimum qualifications to meet valid requirements, 2) historical utilization rates, and 3) a brief of the requirements per se (Unit Manpower Document data, signed correspondence from senior leadership, etc.). Note: Air Force Education Requirements Board-funded graduate education is reserved for RegAF (non-medical) officers and enlisted in the grade O-5 and below. Career field managers allowing officers or enlisted personnel to attend graduate education programs (in any grade) who will become retirement eligible during their tenure as students or while completing their requisite active duty service commitment need to submit a waiver through AFPC to AF/A1D for approval prior to assigning the quota. That waiver must be signed by the functional manager and indicate coordination with the requisite functional authority.

A21.3. Professional continuing education consists of courses that are 20 weeks in duration or less and available to all officer, enlisted, and civil service personnel in all components of the Air Force. Individual professional continuing education courses are not necessarily open to all career fields across the enterprise. However, professional continuing education directly supports the execution and/or sustainment of enterprise-wide missions and contributes to the enhancement and professional development of personnel.

A21.4. The Air Force Education Requirements Board is not funded on a scale commensurate with Air Force formal education and training and does not, therefore, admit graduate education or professional continuing education that is directly tied to the award of an Air Force specialty code and/or an increase in skill level. Training and/or education required by career field leadership for core Air Force specialty development falls within the purview and funding obligation of formal education and training.
